Road will still be rough for new water board

By NANCY HILLS

THE ROAD leading to a major water supply project has been a bumpy one, and unfortunately, there's still a long way to go.

A slow-moving federal permit process, coupled with its own errors and political infighting has made the road rougher for the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District in its quest for a viable water supply.

The district was originally formed in 1978 after repeated attempts by local governmental agencies and California-American Water Co. failed to bring a major water storage project to fruition.

The first board, and many after it, consisted of five elected and two appointed boardmembers, all with opposing points of view on how to increase the water supply on the peninsula.

While now the community favors some sort of water project on the Carmel River, the divisiveness of the board reflected a almost-forgotten indecision within the community on whether or not to build a dam on the river.

The district's legislation states that it is responsible for increasing the water supply. However, the law nowhere mandates that a dam on the river is the way to acheive that goal.

Moreover, that legislation dictates that while the district should increase the water supply, it must also protect the beauty and delicate environment of the peninsula.

Up to 1983, the district board investigated many types of water supply projects, including enlarging the existing Los Padres Dam, a new reclamation technique using water hyacinths, and joining with the county in a large dam at Arroyo Seco.

The board, in fact, suspended its own work on a Carmel River dam while the Arroyo Seco project was under scrutiny. It also came under fire and ridicule by critics for the report on water hyacinths.

Nick Lombardo used this ridicule and accused the district board of not pursuing the dam as the basis of his campaign for a seat on the water board in the 1985 election.

In 1983, the district filed a water rights application to the State Water Resources Control Board for a dam on the Carmel River at the existing San Clemente reservoir site and began the environmental impact report for the project.

Originally, the district believed the proposed dam on the Carmel River would not require a federal 404 permit, the permit issued by the Army Corps of Engineers under the auspices of the Environmental Protection Agency.

But it did not get that agreement in writing. Additionally, changes in the federal environmental permit laws would have negated any previous agreement and included the project in the federal permit process.

In July 1986, the district was formally informed that it would require a 404 permit and to qualify for the permit, it would have to do an EIS — environmental impact statement — as well as EIR, the state environmental document.

An EIS is a more intensive environmental review, requiring an in-depth analysis of the pros and cons of each alternative and why each has been eliminated.

At the time, the district was almost ready to issue its draft EIR, but delayed it a year to include the EIS requirements.

The district was also in the process of creating a computer simulation of the natural water supply system that would be used to manage the dam and aquifers. The complex computer model is the basis of many of the decisions made in the EIR/EIS and it took years longer to make it a working model than anticipated.

The delays fanned the flames of an ongoing political tug-of-war, excaberated by the upcoming 1987 election, between factions vying for control of the water district, one group claiming that the board in control was actually against building a dam. The board, they said, was dragging its feet and accomplishing nothing.

Various factions, former board members and self-styled water experts leveled the charge that the district had done nothing in the years since 1978 when it was formed.

In 1987, with two boardmembers facing reelection, Heuer and Patricia Bernardi, and one more seat up for grabs, the board pushed to get the report out before the election date, and, in the process, many feel, released it before it was completely ready. When released in September 1987, it was more than 300 pages long with an additional similarly sized technical report.

The campaign of 1987 once again revolved around accusations of a "do-nothing" board and challengers Paul Davis and Jim Hughes won seats, filling one vacant seat and replacing Patricia Bernardi. Dick Heuer came in third and won re-election. It was the same election that two-thirds of the voters approved pursuing a dam as a water supply project.

Ironically, while charges that the board was not really interested in a dam were being leveled at boardmembers, federal and state permit agencies were claiming that the district was too intent on a dam on the Carmel River and EPA virtually declared the EIR/EIS was unacceptable because it did not include enough alternatives.

As critics of the report pointed out, there were only three alternatives listed in the report — three sizes of the same dam.

The district's criteria for selecting alternatives, the governmental agencies protested, were skewed so only a large dam on the river would pass.

Many other projects had been investigated, some eliminated immediately because of cost, engineering problems or because they were considered insurmountable restraints.

Some were analyzed in more depth but still discarded because they would not accomplish what the district wanted to accomplish.

Furthermore, as with the water hyacinth project and other options, whenever the district board considered alternatives to the New San Clemente Dam, it was accused of not being serious in its pursuit of the only water supply project worth talking about: a dam on the river.

On the opposite end of the spectrum, the permiting agencies found the material on the alternative projects in the environmental reports too cursory and gave the district the choice of going ahead with the report to a final draft and take its chances, or do a supplemental EIR/EIS, a more time-consuming but more complete process.

The district decided to do the supplemental report, which is scheduled for release this April.

To help avoid the problems the district had encountered in the first report, the board requested that Rep. Leon Panetta chair a task force consisting of representatives of the district and the permiting agencies.

During those meetings, the district was convinced that the New San Clemente Dam project would never receive environmental permits and switched its emphasis to a dam further up river at the Los Padres Dam site. That will be the proposed project in the EIR/EIS due out next year.

At the same time the district switched to the New Los Padres Dam, Cal-Am annouced it would pursue studies on the Canada Reservoir, an off-river water storage facility to be located in the hills above mid-Carmel Valley.

However, it is still unknown whether that project is feasible from an engineering, cost and water supply standpoint.

It will be included in the district's EIR/EIS as an alternative.

If the supplemental EIR/EIS is acceptable, the district will begin the process to obtain permits for its project from the State Water Resources Control Board and other state and federal agencies. That could take years.

Additonally, voters will have to approve the bond measure to pay for the project.

Disturbing editorial

Dear Editor:

I was deeply disturbed by the Guest Editorial by Albert Eisner in the Nov. 23 issue of The Pine Cone. I have known Al Eisner as a compassionate, considerate, socially minded person. That is why I find his editorial so shocking, so puzzling.

Al is a member of the Board of Trustees of The Medical Center Foundation of Monterey County. The by-laws of the foundation state its purpose in Article 1, as follows: "The specific and primary purpose for which this corporation was formed and to which it is irrevocably dedicated is charitable and shall be for the development, operation, and maintenance of health care facilities, programs, and service through the procurement and extension of supplemental income to Natividad Medical Center."

It was only natural then that the foundation should go all out in time, effort and money in support of the recently passed sales tax increase. If Al could not support the foundation in this important endeavor, he would be obligated to resign from the board. As a member of the board and as a physician deeply concerned about the health care problems of Monterey County, I have been completely supportive of the board's position.

Listen to Eisner on this subject. "Also I was ambivalent about paying $90 million dollars for a new hospital at Natividad that I was unlikely to use even though there was a need for improvements to the county hospital."

What an incredible statement! My translation: Since I, Albert Eisner, am unlikely to use the new hospital, I need not be concerned with the thousands of working poor and indigents for whom Natividad Hospital has been the only source of medical care. Additionally, I must emphasize the fact that a new hospital with modern technology will be of greater service to the community at large. Come on, Al, you didn't really mean what you said, did you?

I was also disturbed by his vituperative attack on Karen Strasser Kauffman. He accuses her and, inferentially, colleagues on the board of supervisors, of some sort of a conspiracy to get the sales tax increase passed. He offers no proof, only ruminations. He uses a retrospective breakdown of the vote on the sales tax increase to accuse her of being out of touch with her constituents. Is he suggesting that she should have taken a prospective poll and taken a position in accordance with the poll rather than one which was an expression of her convictions?

Al Eisner ends the editorial by saying that, "It's OK for politicians to say one thing and do another as long as they are willing to pay the price for their arrogance."

Nowhere in the editorial does he cite an example of her saying one thing and doing another. Indeed, his criticism has to do with her zealous work on behalf of the sales tax increase and the Hatton Canyon Freeway. To the best of my knowledge she has not engaged in doubletalk on these issues. If Al Eisner has data to back up this charge, he should have included it in his editorial.

Finally, I must state that I am unconditionally opposed to the Hatton Canyon Freeway — full or split route. If Al Eisner can prove that there is a "secret agenda," a conspiracy to foist this monstrous, misbegotten construction on the people of our beautiful land, I shall be happy to become a member of a counter-conspiracy as an active participant.

Be that as it may, I shall, under any circumstances, do everything that I can to foil this Caltrans aberration. All who feel this strongly, and we are a large force, must oppose the board of supervisors on this major issue. But our opposition, although firm and unyielding, must be fair and democratic.

To kill a town

Dear Editor:

I happened upon this historical 1869 item from the Dubuque Herald while sifting through some files. It could be Iowa, Carmel or perhaps even all of Monterey County!

TO KILL A TOWN

"If you wish to kill a town put up no more buildings than you are obliged to occupy yourself. If you should accidentally have an empty building, and any one should want to rent it, ask about three times its value. Look at every newcomer with a scowl; turn a cold shoulder to every business man or mechanic seeking a home among you. Go abroad for wares, rather than purchase of our merchants or manufacturers at the same price. Refuse to advertise, so that persons at a distance will not suppose any business is being done in your city. A prompt and close observation of these rules will ruin any town in two years."

Perhaps the following rule should be added:

...and do not at any expense nor for any reason build a roadway to expedite travel nor build a dam, reservoir or drill wells to provide and contain water for today and tomorrow.

Total neglect

Dear Editor:

Caltrans, in its plan for the Hatton Canyon freeway, has totally neglected the needs of local traffic, which comprises 85% of the traffic burden on Highway 1, in favor of the 15% through traffic to Big Sur.

However, only one logical, alternative solution, the "split route" proposal of Roger Larson, which adequately meets local needs, present and future, has presented itself.

The Caltrans single point diamond interchange stops all Carmel Valley traffic (85% of the total) 52% of the time. In addition, another signal at Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road will also stop all Carmel Valley traffic. The single point signal may be the cause of many accidents due to its novelty to Californians and exposure to blinding headlights.

The split route design, on the other hand, uses no traffic signals, but provides unimpeded traffic flow in all directions, and hence is far safer and faster. The roadbeds, except for one overpass, are on ground level, eliminating the costly, enormous cuts and fills of the berm and the Hatton Canyon route. Also, the Highway 1-Rio Road intersection is preserved, allowing turns on Highway 1 and access to shopping.

Caltrans must be compelled to analyze the split route design as a feasible alternative in its final environmental impact statement (EIS), with no further delay. We must give our support by letters to local papers and concerned government offices, and with donations to cover design and legal costs.

What is it worth to preserve the value of your home or business, and restore ease of local travel?

A big problem

Dear Editor:

Hello, my name is Alex Fremier. I am doing a large report on the Hatton Canyon Freeway. I am writing to you this letter because I want you to know how the youth and the public feels.

I feel like the Hatton Canyon Freeway is much too large for Carmel. It is a big and expensive project. It would fit Carmel and Highway 1 a little better if the project was down in size and price.

The traffic problem is only at certain times and at only one space on the highway. It is not that big of a problem to spend that much money on. The Hatton Canyon is too rich an area to ruin by a freeway.

GUEST EDITORIAL

The Big Picture

AS WE Carmelites busily move around our beautiful city day after day and month after month, we tend to focus our attention on the immediate issues and matters facing us as a community. The need for a stop sign or the size of houses dominates our conversations.

As we end 1989, we are provided the opportunity to take a more global overview of this past year in our community and to take a look at the "bigger picture." Such a reflection conjures up a litany of projects, both big and small, that our city has completed over the past 12 months.

Three days prior to the commencement of the new fiscal year, the escrow closed on the Torres Street (Handley) property and the planning effort, which had already begun once an agreement, put into full effect. Construction is currently occurring at the site for a mini-park, greenbelt and 68 additional all-day parking spaces. In February, a 30-year goal of our community was realized when the Harrison Memorial Library Board of Trustees opened the new Park Branch library. A beautiful new municipal facility was inaugurated to serve our library patrons.

Its opening provided the opportunity to renovate the main library building. That project entailed the relocation of several public services provided in the library building and spruced up one of our most revered public facilities.

During the month of August, the Carmel Foundation opened the new Norton Apartment complex in the post office area, fulfilling a long-time goal of both the city and the foundation. The final project involved 41 additional parking spaces, 38 public spaces beneath the facility and four for use by the foundation.

A marvelous suggestion by city staff, and approved by the city council, was to upgrade the Fifth Avenue area of the post office parking lot and in September a new Village Patio, complete with benches and new landscaping, was made available for public use. The first phase of a new sidewalk program, in this post office area, has been completed and additional phases are scheduled for initiation early next year.

Your city, whether on its own or in conjunction with private parties, has developed three new mini-park areas this year. The Forest and Beach Commission has tentatively approved the improvement of two more sites for neighborhood mini-parks utilizing public right-of-way. Additional landscaping and benches will be provided at these sites.

Finally, our year has been completed by a tentative agreement to purchase the Hodges property. This 6.25-acre site adjacent to the Carmel Mission and the Mission Ranch provides enormous opportunities for our community and will lead to the development of a comprehensive plan from "the Flanders House to the Sea." This not only brings the Carmel River (a portion at least) into the city limits but ensures no private development in that area.

It has been a fun year as well as one full of accomplishment. I look forward to 1990 to be as exciting as well as successful as this past year.

I wish to extend my deep appreciation to: Mayor Jean Grace and my fellow colleagues on the city council; to all commissioners and volunteers; our professional and courteous city staff and employees; our business community and those hardy folk that attend the sometimes tedious city council meetings and finally to our citizenry throughout our lovely Carmel-by-the-Sea and its surrounding area.

A wonderful Christmas to all with a gentle easement into the year 1990.

Murphy erosion plan OK'd, county still claims win

By DAVID LELAND

DESPITE A court ruling allowing an owner- initiated erosion-control plan to take place on Little Horse Ranch, county officials claimed victory in last week's decision limiting the scope of that work.

'Murphy has not challenged the permit administratively and, therefore, the permit is valid at this point.'

— J.R. Ramos
— County counsel

Little Horse Ranch, owned by Arizona-based attorney John Murphy, has been the subject of county concern since the District Attorney's Office filed charges against Murphy a year ago.

The DA's lawsuit alleges that Murphy graded roads on his 5,000-acre parcel, located south of Rancho San Carlos and north of Palo Colorado Canyon.

Murphy claims that the work involved only existing roads and was done in conjunction with the California Department of Forestry.

While the actual lawsuit is nowhere near coming to trial, the county and Murphy have been at odds on how debris from the alleged grading should be removed to prevent erosion and environmental harm.

Earlier in the fall, Murphy's consultant, Michael Groves, submitted an emergency development plan for the erosion, which was countered by a permit issued by Dale Ellis, zoning adminstrator.

During the November hearing before Superior Court Judge John M. Phillips, Murphy's attorney, Charles R. Keller, asked that Murphy be able to use his plan, rather than the county's.

In a decision handed down Dec. 8, Phillips ruled that Murphy could begin to carry out his erosion control plan as long as it did not violate the county's permit.

"I think the judge has taken a step in our direction," said J.R. Ramos, deputy county counsel. "I'm looking forward to the judge taking the second step."

The "second step," Ramos said, would be full compliance with the permit.

Ramos, Deputy District Attorney Morgan Taylor and Assistant Attorney General Peter Kaufman, have joined in Murphy's prosecution.

"What the judge did was to recognize the importance of the zoning permit," Ramos said.

While the county permit is somewhat extensive in its scope of work, Murphy's plan simply calls for installation of water bars, repairing open channel drainage, the placement of straw mulch and seeding and hay bales in areas near Wildcat Creek.

In order to perform work outside the county permit, Murphy would need to appeal to the Monterey County Planning Commission.

It is unclear what his intentions were and Keller was unavailable for comment at press time.

"Murphy has not challenged the permit administratively and, therefore, the permit is valid at this point," Ramos said.

Taylor said the county has several options regarding Phillips' decision: 1) appeal the decision to a higher court; 2) file a writ asking that the order be stayed; 3) ask the judge to reconsider; 4) accept the ruling as it stands; 5) ask the judge to clarify his stand.

While the county has the right to visit the property at any point to inspect Murphy's work, one of the vital ingredients in Ellis' permit, left out of Phillips' ruling, was that a county-appointed expert would be on hand to monitor progress.

Ramos, however, appeared optimistic that the county would prevail.

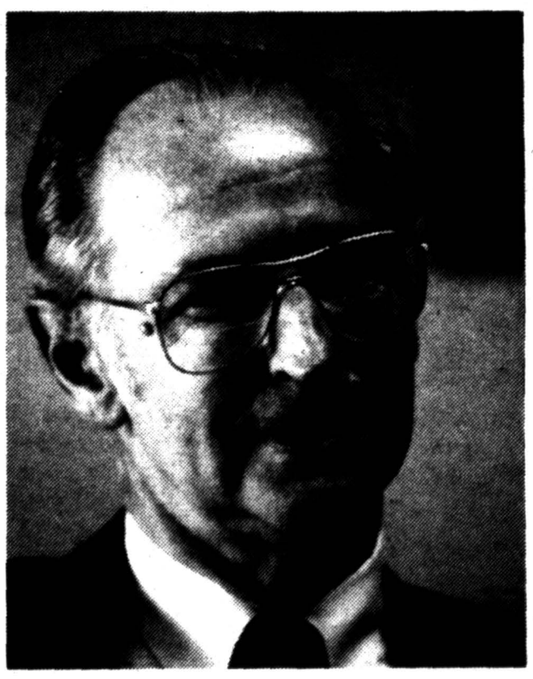
"He's (Murphy) doing it his way and the county's way," he said. "We're looking forward to seeing when he is going to do it our way completely."

Heuer back in driver's seat as water board chairman

By NANCY HILLS

DICK HEUER has stepped back into the role he played in 1986 and 1987: wielding the gavel, setting the agenda and commanding, as much as anyone can, the direction of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

With 40 percent rationing next year still a possibility, a long haul still to go on the permiting process for the proposed dam, and political pressures on the district mounting on all sides, Heuer announced at the board meeting Dec. 4 that "it is going to be a challenging year but I enjoy a challenge."



DICK HEUER has once again taken up duties of chairman of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board and forsees a "challenging" year ahead.

In his comments that evening, after his unanimous election as chairman, Heuer outlined the most important items he believes need to change and those that will stay the same.

Unchanged, Heuer said, is the board's and district's focus on building a new dam on the Carmel River. That goal was strengthened by the two-thirds majority vote in 1987 in favor of a dam, Heuer said at the meeting.

"Today, after two more years of drought and a year of water rationing, that mandate is stronger than ever. Construction of a new dam or reservoir remains the primary goal of this district. That will not change," he told the standing-room-only crowd.

Also unchanged is the difficulty of getting government permits for the dam, a situation which has led to long delays and has given the district a reputation for accomplishing nothing.

"We are trying to do what has never been done before — building a dam on a coastal river under current environmental regulations. We are writing the book on what we are doing," Heuer said in an interview with The Carmel Pine Cone.

Though the permiting process is difficult and time-consuming, the district is not blameless in some of the delays, he added.

"We obviously have made mistakes, the biggest one probably being trying to do the EIR 'in-house' (in 1983)," he said.

When the district first started the environmental impact report process in 1983, the board hired a new staff member whose job was to write the EIR. He found the task beyond the scope of one person so the district hired consultants for the job.

"That (going through the in-house process), probably set us back year," he observed. "Most of our problems and mistakes go back to a great underestimation of the length of time it takes the process. We gave out timelines that are probably unrealistic. Now we have found you can't build a dam on a timeline."

(See related story this issue for a summary of the EIR/EIS process since the district's inception.)

In fact, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers estimates it takes 25 years to get a dam online, Heuer said.

The district ran into one major delay back in 1986. The governmental permiting agencies found the EIR/EIS on the proposed New San Clemente Dam unacceptable because it was too focused on the one project. In 1988, the district decided to do a supplemental report which is scheduled for completion around April of next year.

"IN RETROSPECT, we probably should have included more alternatives in the EIR/EIS," Heuer said.

Many of the problems, he said, came from the fact the governmental agencies would not discuss what they wanted in the report.

"On a number of occasions we asked them to meet with us, but they didn't want to talk to us until the EIR was done. We're too busy they said, bring us a project then we will discuss it," Heuer said.

This is not a problem only for the district, but a problem nationwide, Heuer said, a point also made frequently by former chairman Nick Lombardo, who regularly railed against government bureaucracies.

'Most of our problems and mistakes go back to a great underestimation of the length of time it takes the process. Now we have found you can't build a dam on a timeline.'

— Dick Heuer

"The problems in the country is nationwide proof that there is something wrong with the system," Heuer said.

He points to the Twin Forks River Dam in Colorado, where the state paid $40 million for its EIR/EIS only to have EPA yank the permit on environmental grounds. The same has happened to the Palmo Dam in San Diego and water projects in in Georgia, Virginia and Rhode Island, Heuer said.

In response to these problems, concerned states have formed the Nationwide Water Task Force to change the process at the national level.

"It was formed," Heuer explained, "to deal with what is a growing national crisis — the difficulty, if not impossibility, of getting permits for major new water projects in many parts of the nation under the current interpretation of the Clean Water Act."

One of the things the task force is recommending, he said, is that the "permiting agencies meet with the proposers of a project as part of the process rather than wait until large sums of money and time is on an EIS.

"That is precisely the problem we got caught in," he said. "That was a matter of policy. They said they can't meet until we have the (reports) finished."

The district itself is not waiting for those changes. At its Dec. 21 meeting, it will begin the steps needed to hire a lobbyist in Washington, D.C., Heuer said.

SINCE THE district may be blameless in the delays on the dam, it also may not deserve the reputation that it has accomplished nothing.

While the political storms have raged, work has continued on completion of the supplemental EIR/EIS for the dam.

To facilitate the process, the district requested that the permiting agencies meet to discuss their requirements and objections to the EIR/EIS with Rep. Leon Panetta acting as chairman of the group.

It was during these meetings that the district was told almost categorically by the government environmental agencies that the New San Clemente Dam, the main project proposed in the EIR/EIS, probably would never get a permit because of its environmental side effects.

The district put it on the back shelf as an alternative and proposed the New Los Padres Dam, further up the river, as the primary project. Other than the fact the agencies would prefer an off-river dam, the biggest drawback to a permit for the Los Padres project is that it will inundate about four acres of the Ventana Wilderness.

To avoid that problem, Panetta has proposed a rider on a federal Ventana Wilderness bill that would remove the four acres from the federal wilderness area. In exchange, the district would buy acreage to add to Ventana Wilderness in another area.

That bill has been stalled in Congress, Heuer explained.

"We need to rally behind that bill to get it through," Heuer said.

In addition to the dam, the district has also been working on completion of the extremely complicated environmental impact report on the available water supply and its distribution among the cities and portions of Monterey County within the district.

That report, which is bound to cause more political battles since it could redivide the available supply among the district's jurisdictions, is due for completion in February 1988.

It may even prompt the board to declare that the current allowed levels of demand are too high and must be lowered.

"The issue today is how we get along until a new water storage project is built. When you find yourself in the position of allocating the supply when there is a shortage and find yourself talking about limiting new connections it becomes a question of who gets the limits and who doesn't. Traditionally there have always been battles over water when it is in short supply over who gets to use it," Heuer said.

County quietly regulates PB Co.'s Spanish Bay use

By DAVID LELAND

SCARCELY A soul testified Tuesday during the public hearing portion of the Pebble Beach Co.'s use permit for the Spanish Bay Golf Course.

That lack of involvement marked a direct contrast to November's hearing when public sentiment clamored for harsh penalites to be levied on the company.

While the Monterey County Board of Supervisors had toyed with the idea of lifting the Pebble Beach Co.'s use permit for Spanish Bay, it took a somewhat softer stance Dec. 12.

Instead, the board voted (by 4-0, with Supervisor Del Piero absent), to regulate special events and golf tournaments on the golf course that involve galleries or spectators.

The recent action stemmed from work performed illegally by the Pebble Beach Co. on the golf course at Spanish Bay, which violated its use permit.

Specifically, the company removed vegetation, placed fill and created new tees on the 3rd, 15th and 18th holes; graded and removed vegetation on a dune adjacent to the 10th fairway; and removed vegetation in a wetland area near the 18th fairway.

The board also forbade functions involving the use of tents and canopies. Also, parking lots, roadways and public accessways cannot be used for events without a separate use permit.

The action effectively bars any world class tournaments on the golf course at Spanish Bay.

The county has also hired Tom Moss, a dune specialist with Asilomar State Park, to evaluate and review the company's restoration plan.

After review, the Monterey County Planning Department has requested the plan be revised to included additional on- or off-site mitigation areas at a 3 to 1 ratio.

The board set a hearing for March 20 to receive a status report on the restoration efforts and possible further action.

Seriously flawed

Dear Editor:

The freeway through Carmel proposed by Caltrans is seriously flawed in several respects and will not improve traffic movement for Carmel residents besides being far too expensive.

The four lanes north through Hatton Canyon and the unsightly berm to overpass Rio Road will ruin the canyon and valley mouth natural environment by requiring the excavation and compacting of thousands of tons of unneeded cut and fill due to poor design.

The split-route plan of Roger Larson uses only two lanes (northbound only), through Hatton Canyon and two lanes southbound on Highway 1. But by widening Highway 1 to two lanes in each direction, the Hatton Canyon portion could be postponed and easily added to form a split route if and when it becomes necessary. This would preserve Hatton Canyon as is for many years at least.

In order to met the needs of local drivers as well as through traffic, the split route as is, or as above modified, or other reasonable plan must be shown to be feasible to Caltrans. To accomplish this, donations must be sent to Hatton Canyon Coalition to cover design costs, and letters sent to local newspapers and politicians.

Gwendolyn R. May
Carmel Valley

Action now

Dear Editor:

Even if the Hatton Canyon Freeway is built (and I hope it is not), it would not be completed for several years. There's no reason to live with the current mess any longer than necessary. Whatever the final outcome, the following things could be done at relatively minimal expense to yield significant relief.

1. Relane Highway 1 from Carmel Valley Road to Morse Drive to three lanes (two northbound), without any shoulders. Forbid bicycle traffic.

2. Add lane markers at the Highway 1/Carmel Valley Road intersection. Then westbound Carmel Valley traffic can turn right into their own lane without stopping.

5. Consider installing a temporary signal (for peak traffic hours only) for the left turn from Highway 1 to Carmel Valley Road. This would do away with the "boulevard stop" situation that develops when northbound Highway 1 traffic stops for those cars wanting to turn left. Limit the left turn light to 20/30 cars.

6. Synchronize the signals on Rio Road so that when the Highway 1 intersection is green for east/west through traffic, the other two signals (giving access to/from The Crossroads) would also be green. Only when the Highway 1 intersection is red (for east/west through traffic) could the two signals permit Crossroads access/exit.

7. Rework the Highway 1/Rio Road sensors to provide the greatest "cost benefit" trafficwise for all traffic: i.e., switch the signal (and traffic flow) when traffic is dribbling through while cross traffic backs up.

8. Create a temporary second left-turn lane on Highway 1 southbound at Rio Road, with lane markers through the intersection.

9. Temporarily extend the right-turn lane on northbound Highway 1 (south of Rio Road).

10. For traffic traveling east on Rio Road and turning left onto Highway 1 northbound, put lane markers through the intersection. Extend them north to the Carmel Valley Road intersection. Similarly on Rio Road, westbound, make the right-hand lane a continuous right-turn lane, with lane markers through the intersection. This right-hand lane (on Highway 1) should have signs: "Through traffic merge left" and "This lane must turn right."

Spanish Bay Inquisition

Dear Editor:

As an employee of the Spanish Bay Inn's golf course I was present when recent work took place. The local media used the word stripped in refering to the work that was done. Well, we didn't strip anything! What was done was a reforming of an existing man-made sand dune on the 10th fairway.

The Spanish Bay golf course was purposely laid out to be difficult. Over a period of time, it has been found that some minor changes were needed to improve the overall situation. The golfers were continually getting lost in a maze of sand dunes (there is about a 50-50 exchange between fairways and sand dunes on the course).

The 18th fairway widening was necessary, "in my opinion," because there was a narrow passage of less than 70 feet between two massive brush areas. The golfers, in trying to avoid the brush, shot their golf balls down the cart and walking path presenting a definite hazard to strolling guests and workers.

The mounding up of three teeing off areas, from existing sand in the area, is inconsequential, when compared to the 400 acres of sand dunes and golf fairways.

Twenty years ago this was a wind-swept and water-eroded area, where there was indiscriminate dumping of excess trash by private citizens: Including, unmentionable activities by young people. There were numerous derilect buildings waiting for a problem to develop. Today, there is a magnificent golf course and hotel, employing several hundreds of people and a thousand of suppliers supporting the complex.

In the recent media Inquisition of the Spanish Bay (on the reforming and adjusting of several critical areas), the word used to stir up the public was...stripped, in referring the work done. Yet, none of them mention that 30 employees are involved in day to day horticulture and maintenance activities throughout the outdoor area.

To tell the truth, if the company would just invite the public to Spanish Bay for a Day for good eats and strolling, we'll win their confidence without an argument.

Kudos to Detro

Dear Editor:

Recently John Detro came to Santa Catalina to lecture my class on history of jazz. He did a fine job which was deeply appreciated by both students and faculty.

He donated his time in a most gracious manner. We are indeed fortunate to have such a knowledgeable man in our community. I would like to thank John on behalf of the Santa Catalina School.

Heuer back as water board chair

"I think you need the most equitable balance you can find between residential and economic interests, which are the mainstay of the peninsula.

"I think the report will show that we have less water than we are allocating — that doesn't come as a surprise to anyone who has followed water issues. The community is going to have to make some difficult decisions," he warned.

The district is now working on a series of smaller water supply projects to tide the peninsula over until a larger project is on line.

The short-term projects were not done earlier because the district believed it could complete the major project relatively quickly.

"We felt that public funds should be reserved for the project that was more cost-effective," he said.

Other projects the district has been working on include the irrigation of riverside vegetation, erosion control projects and management of the water supply to ensure the safety of the aquifers.

"We have three principal functions, to augment the water supply, to keep water demand so it does not exceed supply and protect the water supply," he said.

All three have received attention from the district.

Heuer also has praise for the rationing program implemented by the district. Though they may have been too lax on who received variances, the overall program is one of the best in the state and has become a model for other water agencies in California, he said.

Another program that other agencies have copied is the district's water conservation ordinance, Heuer said, which requires retrofit of businesses and residences on when sold.

Additionally, the district was the second water jurisdiction in California to distribute water conservation kits to residences.

"The only area we have not been successful to date is augmenting the water supply," he said.

And that, he hopes, will soon change.

New cultural commission wants to expand offerings

By NANCY HILLS

ALTHOUGH PLAYING with a hot potato, the Carmel Cultural Commission is moving ahead to develop programs they hope will interest the citizens of Carmel.

Carmel is considered a cultural community, but, even here, that can be a mixed bag.

Such classic endeavors as the symphonies, the Festival of Dance and Carmel Bach Festival sell out every year, while other more esoteric functions such as the playwriting contest, the Festival of Firsts, still struggle to fill more than half the theater.

Beside music, dance and theater, the city initiates and sponsors programs at Sunset Center like "World Traveler," a travelogue film series; Classic Films, films of early Hollywood; and Lively Arts, eclectic series of performers and preformances.

'We will always have the 'classic' cultural events here in Carmel. But we are not only here for the classic cultural activities, but the daily cultural scene.'

— Antonia Verleye

At Forest Theater, the Children's Experimental Theater, Forest Theater Guild and GroveMont share the facility, rotating seasons throughout the year. But even in that peaceful silvan setting the cultural war is in full swing as the three groups argue over storage space and more, importantly, who gets what season or portion thereof. The commission will review theater group seasons in January.

The community and cultural commission of Carmel has the responsibility of encouraging and developing cultural activities in the city and overseeing the use of Sunset Center, all answerable to the city council.

But the cultural commission, now consisting of relatively new commissioners, has determined it is time to begin looking beyond the traditional, established events and begin stretching out.

Furthermore, they feel that culture does not end at the boundaries of the Sunset Center or the Forest Theater and have cast their eye toward big and small events that would be out of the confines of the center or the outdoor theater. The purpose is to bring more residents into city activities, they have stated.

The cultural commission's programming committee is just beginning a review a list of possible new programs to pursue.

It includes activities that some people dedicated to live theater and classical music feel are not within the realm of culture.

The commission's stance has been met with opposition from some long-time members of the cultural community and sparked accusations that the cultural tone of Carmel is disintegrating — that the commission is moving toward recreation rather than encouraging more strictly cultural activities.

BUT CLASSIC cultural in Carmel is not threatened by new ideas, members of the programing committee maintain.

"We will always have the 'classic' cultural events here in Carmel," commissioner Antonia Verleye said. "But we are not only here for the classic cultural activities, but the daily cultural scene. There are a lot of people out there that have never been to Sunset Center because it doesn't offer something they want."

"We want to enhance programs and be responsive to the whole community. If we hold programs that no one comes to, we won't do it again next year," added commissioner Linda Anderson.

Anderson said programs such as the symphony, The Festival of Dance, Lively Arts and World Traveler were definitely going to stay and any new programs would not compete with the old.

Carmel Cultural Director Richard Tyler, who retires Dec. 28, is currently traveling to Palm Springs and New York to book the 1990-91 season.

At the same time, the cultural commission has voted to begin investigating the list of additional activities suggested by the programming committee. The list includes a garden lecture series, Children's Film Series (in conjunction with the library), Pickle Family Circus, El Teatro de la Esperanza and a performer by the name of Peter Madcat Ruth. Anderson added she would like to see a Soviet balalaika group and an American Native dance company perform.

The committee is also considering expanding current programs, such as the popular Homecrafters show, which could be held twice, rather once, a year and adding more mini-music events, which currently features musicians playing prior to city council meetings and performances at Piccadilly Park.

The gardening program exemplifies one aspect of the new programming the cultural commission is interested in developing.

It will cost little, taps the expertise of the residents and is an activity that many citizens actually do rather than just watch, Verleye and Anderson said.

The series would involve lectures on native plants, succulents, English gardens, herb gardens, general horticulture, garden design, a presentation by the garden club and bonsai.

Commission to expand offerings

The program could end with a citywide garden tour, the program committee has suggested.

"We would like to tap into the community's talent," Anderson explained. "There are a lot of people out in this area with interesting backgrounds and expertise. We should utilize those people."

More family-oriented programs are also on the agenda, Verleye said. Performers like Peter Madcat Ruth and the Pickle Family Circus are just two examples of those types of activities.

Because finances are always a factor, the cultural commission, Verleye said, is interested in combining forces and budgets with other commissions for some of its programs.

The commission voted to join the library youth services in a young people's film program, with the library, recreation commission and cultural commission dividing the approximately $1,900 cost for renting the feature films.

Another idea the commission is considering, Anderson said, is a city festival, possibly a street fair and in the same vein, developing a weekly Farmer's Market at one of the city properties.

"We feel we represent all the citizens and we would like to see everyone involved in some aspect of culture.

"We would like to hear from the residents of Carmel their ideas on what the cultural commission could offer the community and their reactions and opinions on the programs we are discussing now," Anderson said.

News notes:

Water district warns rationing standards tougher

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District is using 1987 as the base year to compare current water use, which could make it harder for some to stick to the 20 percent conservation figure.

Water district manager Bruce Buel explained that 1987 was a much wetter year than 1989 has been.

"We had 16 days of rain in late 1987," Buel said.

There has not been 16 days of rain this year and the sun has been shining brightly. This could cause people to use more water than during the same time period in 1987.

Indeed, last month, the peninsula only saved 13 percent over the base year compared to the more than 20 percent the district recorded in previous months.

"People need to be very careful at this time," Buel said.

Fire department will conduct food, toy drive

THE CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA Fire Department is conducting a drive to raise food and toys for needy families on the peninsula this Christmas. The drive will begin the day after Thanksgiving and will continue until Christmas Eve.

The fire department will be accepting donations in the form of canned and non-perishable foods, workable toys, money and any other appropriate gifts. Any and all contributions will be appreciated. Once collected, the donated items will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Donations may be dropped off at the Carmel-by-the-Sea Fire Department on Sixth Street between San Carlos and Mission, daily from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

For further information, contact Mitch Kastros at the fire department, 624-1718.

Supervisor seeks applicants for women's commission

FOURTH DISTRICT Supervisor Sam Karas is seeking applicants for appointment to Monterey County's Commission on the Status of Women.

The supervisor is seeking to fill two vacancies effective Dec. 31, 1989 and March 1, 1990.

The commission serves in an advisory capacity to the board of supervisors on a variety of matters relative to women in the county.

Duties are to study and investigate matters which demonstrate sex based discrimination within county government; to prepare and disseminate information in the fields of sex on matters involving the needs of women; to investigate complaints of prejudice against any persons because of sex and seek to resolve such matters through consultation, conciliation and advice.

Anyone who is interested and resides in the 4th District is encouraged to send a letter stating their desire to serve, including their home address and day-time phone number to the office of Karas at 1200 Aguajito Road, Suite 006.

Monterey County's 4th District includes Monterey, Seaside, Del Rey Oaks, parts of Sand City and Pebble Beach.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

MORE THAN 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day: the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $15 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

'The Trial of the Century' pits Princess against Rumpelstiltzkin

By DAVID LELAND

AN ENDLESS parade of witnesses have taken the stand during the Princess' trial at Carmel Middle School, each painting a different portrait of the former miller's daughter.

The Princess, accused by Rumpelstiltzkin of breach of contract and inflicting bodily harm, faces stiff fines if convicted by the village jury.

During the third day of the five-day trial, eighth-grader, Judge Daniel Silver, son of Monterey Superior Court Judge Richard Silver, kept a tight rein on otherwise hostile witnesses.

For those past the age of fairy tales, if that's possible, be reminded that Rumpelstiltzkin saved the Princess' life after her father, the wicked miller, swore to the king that his daughter could turn straw into gold.

The King, dreaming of endless riches, locked the Princess in a tower high his castle where she sat helpless, unable to perform the task — Rumpelstiltzkin, a "tiny, little man," appeared and offered to help her.

The first two nights the Princess paid Rumpelstiltzkin by offering him her ring and necklace — the straw was turned into gold. By the third night, however, she had nothing to offer — Rumpelstiltzkin suggested that she promise him her first-born child.

She agreed.

"When a person is a captive in a locked room it's a lot liking being in a math class," said defense witness Dr. Ima Shrink (Counselor Donna Alonzo), who has had the Princess under therapy for sometime. "You'll do anything to get out."

She further discredited Rumpelstiltzkin for his inability to successfuly join on with Elf's Union 2205, which each year assists Santa Claus in his rounds.

"They've had trouble with this elf-want-to-be for years," she charged, adding that he has a Napolean complex.

Santa Claus was scheduled to take the stand during the next session.

But Johnny "Rocco" Stadille, a rogue who makes his living in night clubs, dog racing and on fast women, painted an entirely different picture of Rumplestiltzkin, while under oath.

"Rumplestiltzkin's a good friend of mine," he said, sounding much like classic gangster actor Sheldon Leonard. "He's a real good egg; he's A-1."

He further charged that not being of royal blood surely taints the Princess' testimony.

"You call her a princess," he asked, pointing to the demure maiden dressed in a pink satin dress. "I knew her before she was a princess, she had everything — she blew it on booze."

TO BE sure, middle school administrators and students have taken some artistic liberties with the classic fairy tale. But who cares when the object is education?

Known as the Trial of the Century, the idea is the brainchild of language/arts teacher Barbara Morriss, who three years ago, with former students Anthony Herro and Ian Dia, both children of attorneys, thought the concept sounded like fun.

The first such trial centered upon the story of Goldilocks, who was charged breaking and entering, property damage and theft.

"The students really have to think, there's no script" said Morriss, of the class which is part of the school's enrichment program.

Princess put on trial at CMS

"The kids take it really seriously, even though it's just a game."

Last year Jack and the Beanstalk made it to trial, at which time Jack was convicted of killing the giant and was sentenced to community service.

On a more serious note, the trial of Frankenstein asked whether the doctor was responsible for the violent acts of his monster. He was not.

"The trials are supposed to help the students have fun with legal issues whether they are in reality or fairy tales," said Principal Karl Pallastrini. "This class is very popular — high on the request line."

The enrichment program has six sessions a year, each meeting for eight weeks.

After a fairy tale is selected by students, the students spend about a month working out arguments pro and con.

Morriss then chooses sides and helps the students prepare.

"I kind of get creative with it and give them secret messages," said Morriss, of the slips of paper she frequently passes to both defense and prosecution attorneys.

In this particular trial the defense team is composed of eighth-grader Jim Rice and seventh-grader Allison Bohnen. Prosecution consists of seventh-graders Brooke Andrews and Melissa Bryant.

In addition to Alonzo and Stadille, Pallastrini plays the role of the miller and Scott Rainer stars as the Prince.

"The faculty participation is what makes this so much fun," said Pallastrini, adding that he had to work to keep pace with his student interrogator. "It's impromptu; we have to think on our feet."

JUST IN case there is some question in the jury's mind as to what actually happened at any phase of the trial, each 30-minute session is videotaped by a student.

Morriss even keeps the school excited about the trial by putting clues into the daily student bulletin.

She tries to make the clues favor one side or another and let the jury make up its mind.

"Public opinion is swayed by what they read in the press," she said. "The jury can only use what they say in court, but it's fun to watch them pick through this."

The jury selection is also patterned after real life, with students given professions and their names then thrown into a jury pool.

"It's fun for kids to role play different jobs," said Morriss, adding that for Rumplestiltzkin an airline pilot was dismissed because he had flown "little people" around.

While it is certainly unclear how the jury will view the proceedings, Dr. Ima Shrink put the Princess' mindset on the line: "Impending death does put a damper on your life."

TESTIFING ON behalf of the Princess, Dr. Ima Shrink (at right being sworn in), told the jury that the Princess could not be blamed for making promises while under duress.

Fireplace fire started destruction of Carmel home

By NANCY HILLS

ON SUNDAY, Dec. 10, a fire burned brightly in a fireplace in an old house on Lopez Road. Unfortunately, it did not stay there.

It took only a few minutes for the flames to turn the old redwood house, second from the corner of Fourth Avenue, into blackened beams and smoking debris. The flames shot higher than the surrounding trees and came within minutes of devouring Heather Hill's house next door. As it was, her house sustained about $10,000 in damage. Loss of the house that was destroyed is estimated at $150,000.

The fire was the second in a month caused by a faulty fireplace, said Carmel Fire Department Fire Prevention Specialist Art Black, and is the very reason people should have their fireplaces and chimneys inspected.

"There have been a couple of fires recently, not because of the chimneys, but because of fireplaces that have not been maintained," he said. "With winter coming on, more people are going to be using their fireplaces. It is important to have those fireplaces inspected on a regular basis by a certified chimney sweep."

Inspections should be done once or twice a year, depending upon how often the fireplace is used.

Certified chimney sweeps have to pass a test given by a national chimney sweep certification board, Black said.

"A chimney sweep is a very important part of the fire prevention community," he added.

A certified chimney sweep will check the hearth to ensure it has a screen or glass partition, the fire box, chimney and chimney lining for damage.

Both recent fires, Black said, where caused by faulty or damaged "fire boxes," the part of the fireplace that contains the fire.

Inspection is particularly important now, Black said, following October's earthquake, which could have caused cracks in the chimney lining or the firebox.

When the fire box is cracked or the mortar bad, the heat is literally sucked through the cracks into the wood frame of the house. Once dried, it will ignite, often without the homeowner being unaware it is happening.

The home on Lopez Avenue is owned by Connecticut resident Gretrude Dubitzky, and was used only for vacations and weekend retreats. Dubitzky's daughter, Mildred, and a friend, both of San Francisco, were staying at the house for the weekend and had been using the fireplace for heat, Black explained. The old fire box was damaged and the dry wood of the house caught fire.

Another recent similar fire on Guadalupe Street, caused less damage because the house had a smoke detector that woke the homeowner and sheetrock construction that slowed the fire.

"Outside of the kitchen, the fireplace is almost the only other source of ignition within the house, and Carmel residents love their fireplaces," Black said.

Black cautioned that fires in fireplaces should never be started with flammable liquids such as gasoline or charcoal starter, the damper should never be closed when there are still hot ashes and fire should never be allowed to burn after everyone in the house has gone to bed.

CARMEL RIVER WATER NEWS

By Henrietta Stern

Into the 1990s

ON DEC. 4, a new Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board was seated to lead the Monterey Peninsula into a new decade.

As noted in my column last month, the board has several important issues to address in 1990. They include limitations on new water permits, certification of the Final Allocation EIR, increasing water supply or reducing demand via several Interim Water Projects, and making significant headway on the long-term solution — a new dam on the Carmel River. If Mother Nature does not provide plentiful rains next winter, the new board may be forced to impose more stringent rationing than currently exists.

The purpose of today's column is to summarize the policy issues the board must address in the upcoming weeks, and to offer opportunities for citizen participation in the decision-making process.

SUSPENSION OF WATER METER APPLICATIONS

As many of you know, the board voted on Dec. 4 to temporarily suspend accepting any water permit applications that increase water consumption in areas that are under rationing (Cal-Am, Water West and Seaside Municipal service areas). The suspension will remain in effect until a formal ordinance is approved, likely in late January.

This means applications will be accepted from Laguna Seca, Hidden Hills, Ryan Ranch and other areas. (Check with the district permit office for details.) Also, if an applicant can show that a project will not result in increased water use, the application may be accepted. An example might be adding a new bathroom to a home, and replacing the old 3.5-gallon toilets already in the house with new ultra-low flow models.

WATER PERMIT POLICY ISSUES

On Jan. 8, 1990 the board will hold a formal public hearing on whether water connection permits should be limited, and if so, how. Based on the policy decisions made that evening, an ordinance will be drafted and considered at another public hearing on Jan. 22. The emergency ordinance could be effective immediately if it garners five votes on Jan. 22.

If the board votes for a limitation on permits, some of the policy questions that must be answered include:

(1) What areas would be affected?

(2) What types of water use would be limited?

(3) When would the limitation begin and end?

(4) Would "projects in progress" be exempted, and how are they defined?

(5) Would there be an appeal or variance process? What standards and policies would guide variance approval?

ALLOCATION EIR

The Final Allocation EIR is scheduled for certification in spring 1990. The board will use this comprehensive document as the primary tool to determine how big the "water pie" should be — that is, the maximum district-wide Cal-Am production that should be allowed in a normal year. The board will also determine the best way to "divide the pie" among the six cities, the airport district and unincorporated areas of the county within the water district.

The Allocation EIR findings could significantly influence the extent and conditions of an ordinance on water meter permits. Put simply, the smaller the "water pie," the higher probability of a long-term ordinance limiting new connections, assuming no new sources of water. As described below, the board is committed to quickly developing new sources of supply and reducing demand to increase drought protection and foster economic health.

INTERIM WATER SUPPLY PROJECTS

ON Dec. 4, the board committed money and staff resources to develop several interim water supply projects. Projects that would increase water supply include new wells in the Seaside Coastal ground-water sub-basin and a desalination plant. Projects that would reduce water demand include a comprehensive retrofit program, reclamation for turf in Pacific Grove, and grants for subpotable projects (e.g., irrigating local parks with treated lake water).

These projects are called "interim" because they produce much less water than a new dam, but can be brought on line relatively quickly until a new dam is constructed. Their focus would be to reduce demand or provide additional water in times of drought.

RETROFIT PROGRAM ALTERNATIVES

On Jan. 24, 1990 the board will hold a special workshop to address policy issues about these projects. A major topic will be the retrofit program, which could be implemented in several ways. We could fund a rebate program for people and businesses who voluntarily install ultra-low flow toilets, similar to a successful program in Santa Barbara. Alternatively, new construction may be permitted if the applicant replaces toilets in existing homes, so that the net result is water saved. The board will formulate what they believe is the best program, based on cost, technical information and public input.

Another major issue will be how to fund the various interim projects. Unfortunately, money is not plentiful, and new sources may need to be tapped. Potential funding sources include the Capital Projects Fund for water supply, increased connection fees or increased MPWMD user fees. Some of the larger projects, like desalination, will require a district-wide election to fund.

RATIONING

On Dec. 4, the board voted to form a citizens' committee to perform a management audit on the existing rationing program. The committee will assess how well the program is working, what needs to be changed and will report their findings to the board by March 1. Before then, the board will hold a formal public hearing on Jan. 8 regarding stricter rationing requirements for golf courses.

Perish the thought, but the board may need to grapple with increased rationing requirements for all of us, based on rainfall this winter. About 75 percent of our rainfall occurs from December through March, so the next few months will determine our fate for the rest of the year.

ON TO THE 1990s!

The next year ushers in a new decade, and many important projects for the water management district. In addition to the near-term projects described above, work continues on our top priority, a long-term water supply. The Supplemental Draft Water Supply EIR/EIS should be completed this spring, with the Final EIR/EIS following in summer or fall. Completion of this document will be a major milestone towards construction of a dam.

Here's to Happy Holidays and a Wet New Year!

Congress approves hospice measure

CONGRESS HAS given final approval to a measure sponsored by Rep. Leon E. Panetta which will ensure the ability of hospice programs around the country to continue to provide adequate care to terminally ill patients who are Medicare recipients.

The provision, adopted last month as part of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989, increases by 20 percent the amount Medicare reimburses hospice programs for basic services provided to Medicare patients.

The increase was proposed jointly by Panetta and Rep. Willis D. Gradison, Jr. (R-Ohio), the original sponsors of the 1986 legislation under which Medicare reimburses hospice costs.

They said the measure was necessary because of the rising costs of providing hospice care.

"Medicare coverage of hospice costs has been a very successful program," Panetta said. "Hospice provides compassionate, dignified treatment to those who are dying at far less cost than traditional forms of care. It tends to the physical, emotional, and spiritual needs of patients as well as their families.

"Unfortunately, without this increase, many hospice providers around the country could no longer have afforded to treat Medicare patients. This provision ensures that Medicare hospice coverage will continue to be effective."

The bill also includes a provision sponsored by Panetta and Gradison which authorizes a study by the Department of Health and Human Services of whether to reimburse hospice services for patients with unusually high costs. A method for covering such costs already exists for other services covered by Medicare.

Panetta is also the sponsor of separate legislation which would require states to reimburse the cost of hospice care for patients covered by Medicaid, the nation's primary health care program for the needy. Medicaid coverage of hospice care is currently an option for the states.

This measure was approved by the House as part of its version of the reconciliation legislation. However, the package of Medicaid reforms in which it was included was dropped from the final version of the reconciliation bill. Panetta said that he expects the Medicaid reforms to be acted upon in 1990.

Law provides funds for MIIS center

CONGRESS HAS enacted, and President Bush has signed into law, legislation providing $3.5 million to assist in development of a new Center for International Trade Enhancement at the Monterey Institute of International Studies (MIIS).

The funds were included at the request of Rep. Leon E. Panetta in the defense appropriations bill for fiscal year 1990. The final version of that bill was adopted by the House on Nov. 15 and by the Senate on Nov. 17. It was signed into law on Nov. 21.

MIIS has already purchased a building for the center with private contributions and is raising additional private funds to renovate the building and complete the center. The center will also be located in other buildings. The total cost of the center is expected to be about $20 million, including the federal contribution.

Panetta said that the new trade center will enable MIIS to expand the foreign language training it provides to the Defense Department. That work involves primarily the training of Defense Language Institute instructors, who teach dozens of foreign languages to some 6,000 Defense Department personnel each year for missions abroad.

It also includes specialized language programs for other defense personnel.

Panetta also pointed out that the new trade center will increase the institute's capacity for training of professional translators to fill critical needs at the State Department.

Panetta to hold quake meeting

REP. LEON E. Panetta and the United States Geological Survey (USGS) will hold a public meeting in Santa Cruz at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 19, to discuss the Loma Prieta earthquake and how to reduce community and individual risks from future earthquakes, Panetta announced Dec. 11.

The USGS will be represented by three earthquake experts, each of whom has at least 20 years' experience with USGS in earthquake analysis and planning. They are Dr. Peter Ward, Robert Page, and Robert Brown, who chairs the Policy Advisory Board of the Bay Area Regional Earthquake Preparedness Project.

The session will focus on three basic questions: What happened geologically during the earthquake? What can we expect from future earthquakes? And what can we do to reduce earthquake hazards? Particular attention will be paid to future community planning.

The USGS representatives will speak for a total of about 45 minutes, and a questions-and-answer session will follow. Panetta will act as moderator.

The meeting will be held in the Santa Cruz County Supervisors' chambers on the fifth floor of 701 Ocean St. in Santa Cruz.

Panetta urges quick repairs on Highway 1

REP. LEON E. Panetta is urging the California Department of Transportation to expedite repairs of the section of Highway 1 near Watsonville damaged in the October earthquake.

In a telegram sent last night to Caltrans director Robert Best, Panetta expressed concern about the agency's estimate that repair work will not be completed until spring, 1990.

"It is difficult to understand why Caltrans does not expect the repairs to be completed until the spring of 1990," he wrote. "While I realize there are complex construction and environment issues involved, the economic life of central coast communities is dependent on this highway.

"The residents of the affected areas have already suffered enough from the severe physical and economic damage resulting from this earthquake. Further delays in repairs to Highway 1 will only prolong this suffering."

Panetta noted that he had already spoken with Best by telephone regarding the delays and the lack of a good alternate route.

"What is making matters worse," he wrote, "is that there is no adequate alternate route available at this time for the residents who must use Highway 1. In addition, what makes all of this even more frustrating is that repairs to highways in the San Francisco Bay area are being completed or worked on around the clock, while the residents of Monterey and Santa Cruz counties are being told to be patient."

He added, "I understand the heavy burdens your department faces in responding to the damage caused by the earthquake, but it is essential that a heavily traveled highway such as Highway 1 be prioritized for immediate repairs. On behalf of the people of this area, I strongly urge you to do whatever is necessary to have the repairs to Highway 1 completed before the Spring of 1990 and in the interim develop a viable detour as soon as possible."

Salvation Army provides numerous helpful services

(Editor's Note: The Carmel Pine Cone will run, on a regular basis, articles on the various organizations and agencies that benefit from the charity efforts of the United Way of the Monterey Peninsula. This week's agency is the Salvation Army.)

SERVING THE entire Monterey Peninsula, from Marina to Big Sur, from The Salvation Army Community Center at Elm and Contra Costa in Seaside, the Monterey Peninsula Corps provides emergency food, shelter, clothing, counsel, guidance, inter-referral with other helping agencies, one-time help with overwhelming utility bills, one-time help with eviction prevention, and a new transitional housing program helping homeless families to regain dignity and economic independence.

On campus at the center is a Child Development Center offering preschool and latchkey care for the children of working families, and an adult day care center for frail or isolated adults.

Center programs also extend fellowship activities for young and old. The emergency/disaster canteen stands ready to provide communications and relief for rescuers and victims of fires, flood, earthquake and other community emergencies.

Although the population of Carmel does not have the connotation of being "in need," the state of being "in need" may be identified in several ways.

One of the human needs The Salvation Army has met for a score of Carmel residents is the need for stimulating fellowship — especially for the frail or isolated elderly.

SAFE (Salvation Army Family Environment) Center provides such day care, designed to encourage and specifically and individually tailored to enhance the life experience of the elderly, thus providing relief and respite for the working family or caregiver. We have worked closely with Carmel Foundation in the SAFE program.

Salvation Army's Basic Needs department also provides social services for any Carmel elderly, during the winter, when utility bills become high and fixed incomes do not stretch to cover rent, food, utilities and medical expenses.

We are also available for referral for agencies in Carmel who help the homeless or hungry. These individuals and families are often transients who call upon Carmel agencies for help: the Carmel Presbyterian Church, the Church of the Wayfarer, and All Saints' Church Outreach. We also provide food and shelter for cases referred by the Carmel Chapter of the Red Cross.

We "network" and cooperate with these Carmel caring agencies so as to avoid duplication of effort and to ensure that no one in need on the peninsula is turned away. Since 1983, The Salvation Army's administration of the Emergency Food and Shelter Funds through FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency) has also channeled approximately $100,000 in public funding to these private social service groups.

BUSINESS BEAT

By David Leland

Something for nothing?

ADVERTISING DOESN'T always entail big bucks, just ask Marco Polo's Guy Muldavin, who espouses — dare I say it — "networking," as an excellent way to increase business sales.

He came up with the idea a number of years ago while working for Bullock's in Southern California. He calls his brainchild "suggested selling."

It's a simple premise based on word of mouth. "These days people like to be sold; they like attention," he told CBA members during their Dec. 7 meeting at La Playa Hotel.

At Bullock's he had each employee suggest an item in another department after each sale. "In a period of three to four weeks we had done a 15 percent increase," he said.

When working at different malls in the Southland, Muldavin expanded his concept to include stores outside his own.

In the Carmel Plaza, Muldavin did a personal survey to see where potential buyers were being directed. He was quite suprised when five customers were pointed toward Macy's in Monterey in order to find the best selection of dark glasses.

Need he say more? It's time that Carmel merchants band together. "It's incredible; it all comes back to you," he said.

Toward that goal, the CBA general membership meeting was set up so merchants could get to know each other a little better and have a good idea what the high points of each other's businesses were.

Does it work? Well two weeks ago a customer pointed to Marco Polo by a fellow merchant ended up spending $2,500 in less than two hours!

One day at a time... The Monterey Conference Center will be the site for the 1st Annual Conference on Recovery taking place from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 20.

The conference will feature seven of the area's foremost authorities who will speak on creatively advancing the frontiers of recovery.

Topics will include, "Beyond Recovery, Strategies for the Millenium," with Carl Paul Alasko; "Cross Addiction; Changes at the Speed of Light," with Randy Berlin; "The Art of Personal Transformation," with Mickey Angello; "Men in Recovery; Building Bridges to Hope," with Fred Jealous; "Women in Recovery, the Heroine's Journey," with Gloria Sherman; "The Body Doesn't Lie or Deny," with Anna Keck; and "Spritual Cynicism, the Deepest of all Wounds," with David Willard.

Each speaker will talk for 45 minutes — a panel discussion to answer questions from the audience will follow the conference.

Holiday happenings

IT HAS been a crazy and stressful year in some ways. The Monterey Peninsula survived the earthquake, although, due to continued inaccuracies in television reporting, national news stated at the time that Monterey was completely destroyed. As a result, tourists have been staying away in droves, hurting local businesses and especially the hospitality industry. Some local parties have been canceled and then there's the water shortage problem and some political conflicts.

However, most of the planned social functions are continuing as scheduled. The Symphony Guild Nutcracker Ball held at the MP Country Club was a sell-out and the SPCA Christmas Celebration held in the Pebble Beach home of the Stoddard Johnstons was a well attended happy holiday evening.

On the agenda this past week: The Meals on Wheels Auxiliary Christmas Social, the Boy Scout Holiday Auction, the American Institute of Architects annual dinner and the Clint Eastwood star-studded Pajaro earthquake benefit.

Pacific Grove took the lead in early holiday events. Nothing reminds us of the Christmas season more dramatically than Pacific Grove's Christmas at The Inns. As always, it was a charming, warming and delightful way to get into the spirit of the season.

The beautiful Martine Inn (set up high with a great ocean view), couldn't have been lovelier. Proprietors Don and Marion Martine had miniature models of Victorian houses displayed downstairs. Two decorated trees have been commissioned through the Museum of Art Festival of Trees workshop. One of scale models of Pacific Grove Victorian homes and one for those in Monterey. Next year the community will be completed with a tree of historic buildings in Carmel.

Two blocks away over at the Queen Anne-style Green Gables Inn (built in 1988), hot cider awaited some 600 touring guests out on a crisp December evening. In downtown PG at the Centrella Hotel (formerly Centrella Cottage), Max Brogan served hot refreshments to go with the delectables set out in the nostalgic parlor while flute music filled the air.

Centrella guests who like to sew have a chance to contribute to a wall hanging set up in hooped frame with sewing chair. One such craft picture, which took several years to complete, hangs just above the one in progress. The scenes are Victorian, of course.

Other participating inns were St. Angela, Gosby House and Maison Blue with proceeds going to PG Art Center and PG Heritage Society.

Sunday afternoon at the Sally Griffin Center of Meals on Wheels (in PG), was the setting for an old-fashioned Christmas Social given by the MOW Auxiliary. Gordon Duffy kept spirits high as he played all the old familiar holiday songs on the piano. Robert Wanigan and Jackie Craighead took the mike to lead more than 230 guests in the old favorites.

The old-time down-to-earth friendly atmosphere was fun for everyone. Prizes were given and all investment tickets were rewarded as the afternoon social reluctantly came to an end.

PG's Beacon House, which opened in 1958, has extended its recovery center by 1,300 square feet by refurnishing the Carriage House for use as offices and a meeting room. Morris Fisher, PG's mayor, cut the ribbon last week followed by tours of the facility. The Beacon House board welcomes investments in the drug recovery center. For $100 you can invest in a cubic foot of recovery.

Our local architects not only design the finest buldings anywhere they also know how to design a fine evening out together. Although the Annual Christmas Dinner was held at Rancho Canada, Jeanne C. Byrne, '89 president of the Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, works and lives in Pacific Grove. She certainly has earned a place in the history of the chapter with her outstanding service during the past (as she put it), "busy, hectic year." A year of continued water shortage and the 5:04 earthquake were part of her brief review of the past year.

After dinner, certificates were awarded. A Certificate of Recognition for Planning & Assessment after the Earthquake was accepted for the City of Hollister by Christopher M. Reyes, who said, "We all remember 5:04. The time is engraved in our minds forever. By 5:15 we had started planning recovery for our oldest building (1880). I will report back a year from now."

Certificates of Appreciation were given to Marvin Guillermo (Grand Sand Marshall), and his committee members and Friends of the Sand Castle Awards went to Dick Bruhn Carmel Store, Belli-Christensen Architects AIA, Carmel Properties Real Estate, Carmel Bank of America, Del Monte Realty, Rancho Canada and the PG Hayward Lumber branch.

Certificates of Appreciation for Community Service & Involvement went to Paul E. Davis (especially for work with the water board), who said, "It's a joy to return something to the community." Virginia Stanton said of her certificate, "This will hold a place of honor. Thanks to all of you dreamy eyed architects."

Past president, Rick Fedelem, and the board of directors received Awards of Appreciation then. Mr. Fedelem presented an award and a gift to Jeanne Byrne for her diligent work for the institute.

GREEN GABLES Inn manager Claudia Long and Sally Stuever were shown by a carousel horse in the parlor of the inn during the PG Christmas tour.

RUSSELL AND Geri Bieman talked with Karen Hagerman and Mark Giberson during the Martine Inn Christmas tour in Pacific Grove.

ED AND Liz Healy and Ron and Sherry Nieme were intrigued with the canopied bed in the Martine Inn during the Christmas at the Inns tour.

SCOTT AND Nancy Bethmann stopped for a moment to talk with Earline Arnold and Dick Nuckton during the Christmas at the Inns stop at Green Gables Inn.

DON AND Marion Martine with docent Katherne Sans looked at one of the lovely Victorian miniatures decorating Martine Inn for the "Christmas at the Inns" tour. (Chuck Scardina photos.)

FLUTES FOR a While, Judy West, Pauline Cantin and Coral Swain, provided music in the Centrella Hotel's parlor for Christmas at the Inns.

MAX GROGAN served hot punch to Centrella guests Judith Higgins, Vonne Battistini, Scott Houston, and Vera Rodman.

The delicious New York steak dinner was capped off with a slide show of works of MBAIA members who are Fellows: Hamilton Brown, Robert Stanton, William Concolino, Will Shaw, Walter Burde and Donald Goodhue.

Several hundred people were hurriedly going from table to table on the mezzanine of the Monterey Sheraton Hotel doing some early Christmas shopping Friday evening. Those tables held a wide variety of attractive silent auction items ideal for gift giving. They wrote in bids, scurried back to recheck themm while hoping that no one had topped the last bid. This was the order of the evening for the Seventh Annual Holiday Auction for the Monterey Bay Area Boy Scout Council.

During this frenzied bidding emcee/co-auctioneer Carl Bell, KMST weathercaster, did a live weather report. The silent auction tables were closed right on time and successful and unsuccessful bidders went into the San Carlos Ballroom for a delicious beef dinner.

As dessert was being served Carl introduced Charles Bancroft, president of the MB Area Council, and Sheriff D.B. "Bud" Cook, who said, "It was great to be honorary chairman. I had a title and Bill Hurley did all the work."

The auction/dinner chairman, Bill Hurley (general manager of the Sheraton), was slightly jetlagged from a flight in from Japan. He was enthusiastically hopeful for a return of $40,000 for the Boy Scouts. He and his long list of committee members worked on the holiday auction for eight months and he has accepted the challenge again for 1990. Seeing the fine Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts it is easy to gain inspiration for all the volunteer work.

The back of the auction program held the bidding number and the front the colorful art of Carmel artist Glenn Bernhardt — a scout with a Christmas tree landing on the moon greeted by green moon folk and boy scout with a paper "Moon landing 20 years ago. Mars next?" Glenn said he garnered many art ideas when his wife was a Cub Scout leader years ago.

For 35 years the comic art of Mr. Bernhardt has enlivened the pages of many publications, from the Wall Street Journal to Good Housekeeping, Family Circle to Psychology Today to Playgirl. "I'm very proud that the list for many years has icluded both Scouting Magazine and Boy's Life," he said.

Auctioneer Stephen G. Magyar started with "The Boy Scout motto is 'Be Prepared', and I want you to be prepared with your checkbooks and we'll get you home for Falcon Crest or the news, whichever is last." The bids for the 47 items came in fast. A few of the lucky winners: A Hammond organ $250; a camper/trailer valued at $1,500 for $400; a 22-foot boat worth $12,000 went for $6,500. The generous Sheraton Hotel packages in San Francisco and Long Beach were snapped up in seconds as were the paintings donated by Nader Agha.

Nader also brought in eight extra fur coats auctioned as the grand finale. A few lucky ladies will wear full-length furs for little more than $200. What an evening for area scouts!

And what an evening took place just two nights later. You could feel electricity in the air the minute you walked into the Monterey Conference Center Sunday evening when a 1,000 people came out for a night of entertainment promised by the organizers of the Pajaro Earthquake Christmas Benefit.

Seeing the need in Pajaro, Sam Karas and Marc Del Piero hatched the idea and phoned Clint Eastwood and asked him if he would work on such a benefit. Clint said, "Count me in." Clint wanted it to be an evening that everyone would enjoy and promised to deliver surprise stars. And so it was and so he did.

Two great actresses who live in Carmel said "yes" immediately when invited to attend, as did Allen Funt. Paul Anka and Merv Griffin consented to be part of the stage show, however, Merv couldn't make it so Clint filled in for him by singing a duet with Paul after Paul did his solo number. The lyrics were written especially for the occasion by Paul.

"This is a first," began emcee Clint Eastwood, "And, my first as emcee." He then proceeded to be engaging, funny and endearing as always. He expressed his gratitude for all the help and support given for this worthy benefit, especially to the "giving" community in which he lives.

First came the introduction of the celebrities — Doris Day, Joan Fontaine, Allen Funt and Chevy Chase. When Chevy came onstage he said, "I just happened to be in the area. (Looking for real estate?) I really should move my family back East." Clint said, "Chevy's movie (National Lampoon's) Christmas Vacation is the hottest movie around, go and see it." (Earlier, Chevy had called Clint his press agent just after I had done television interviews with them.)

"A lot of politicians play the piano," the emcee noted as he introduced the first two stars on the program, "But, most of them are Democrats." They were. Leon Panetta and Henry Mello — with Leon playing classical music and Henry playing jazz. After Henry took his bows, Clint, a jazz buff said, "Oscar Peterson would be jealous."

CHRISTOPHER M. Reyes of the City of Hollister, shown with Tom Mead of Byrne & Byrne Associates and Rick Fedelem, past president of MBAIA.

The emcee referred to a letter (too long to read), from US Sen. Pete Wilson (who doesn't play the piano), before he thanked J. Lohr and Paul Masson for donating wines to go with the Shelter Supper served in the Serra Ballroom. He added that Paul Masson had donated $250,000 to the national earthquake fund. And, with a big smile, he announced that the total for the Pajaro Benefit ahd reached $305,000 because of the generosity of businesses, individuals and the guests who came out that evening.

Mr. Eastwood called on a number of people who came up to present checks. Contributors included: Mondavi Winery $25,000 (with David Armanasco representing the winery); Rancho Canada $22,000; Sam Farr brought a check for

$75,000 from the Baseball Foundation of San Francisco; Tom Oliver turned over a check for $60,000 from the Pebble Beach Co. and its 1,300 employees; Bill Borland brought $25,000 from the Pebble Beach Golf Foundation; Marcie Macleod presented $10,000 from Fargo Industries; Tom Jamison turned in $5,000 from Hoge Fenton Jones & Appel; he announced that Warner Bros. not only furnished transportation for some guests but also contributed $25,000. Mrs. Maggie Eastwood gave a check, as did Ed Haber and many others.

Then it was back to the music of the MP Jazz Orchestra that Clint reminded everyone could be heard every Monday night at Mission Ranch. This time they played for Myles Williams, who sang hits from the '60s when he was a member of the New Christy Minstrels.

As he dropped notes and papers, Clint remarked as he picked them up, "I haven't done this since I was in the Army and was told to pick up everything in sight." However, he had carefully placed all the checks in his jacket pocket.

The big surprise promised by the famous emcee was nationally known comic Norm Crosby, who soon had everyone in tears. Tears that came from laughing so hard. His subjects touched on the Bible, philosophic questions, society in general and current events. Such as: "A year ago Zsa Zsa couldn't get herself arrested and now she has a perfume called Citation." And, "Why did the Siamese twins move to London? I finally figured it out, the other one wanted to drive." His all-too-short 31 minutes were done in his individualistic style of fracturing the English language and our funny bones. Clint thanked him for his grammar lesson.

Edie Karas deserves kudos for reservations and table arrangements, Marc and Sam for coming up with the idea, Armanasco Public Relations for a great deal of work, along with Ernie Morishita, Celia Weiss, Sam Farr, Dan Albert, and all those who cared enough to attend the benefit. Special thanks to Mr. Clint Eastwood for his concern for the citizens of Pajaro.

HATTON CANYON WALKS OFFERED

A walk down Hatton Canyon has been scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 17. Sponsored by the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, the walk is led by Carmel's Noel Mapsted, who has led more than 500 people so far on the canyon walks.

Participants meet at 11 a.m. behind Brintons at the mouth of the valley to carpool to High Meadows for the two-mile walk. Bring lunch, or a snack and water. The walk will end at 2 p.m.

For information call 624-3921.

RED CROSS SEEKS BLOOD DRIVE VOLUNTEERS

Red Cross shelters were staffed in Watsonville, Boulder Creek, Santa Cruz and Hollister by volunteers from the Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter of the American Red Cross almost immediately after Oct. 17th earthquake.

According to Phil Gray, chapter public relations, on one day last month 1,060 people were fed three meals each and 135 slept overnight in the chapter's shelter at the Veteran's Hall in Watsonville. Almost 400 volunteers have helped the chapter out from Day 1 of the earthquake, Gray said.

The Red Cross is currently seeking volunteers to help on their blood drives. Volunteers undergo two two-hour training sessions at the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

For more information or to volunteer, contact the Carmel Red Cross chapter house at Eighth and Dolores or call 624-6921 anytime after 1 p.m. or CHOMP Blood Center at 625-4841.

HEART-HEALTHY POTLUCK SET FOR DEC. 15

The fifth annual Heart-Healthy Holiday Potluck has been scheduled for noon on Friday, Dec. 15, by Community Coronary Club.

The free annual event will be held at the Main Conference Room of Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, which sponsors the club.

Attendees are encouraged to bring a heart-healthy dish to share, along with the recipe so that others may benefit later on.

For more information, or to make a reservation, call CHOMP's Cardiopulmonary Department at 625-4934, and ask for Martha Kennifer, R.N., or Kathleen Alarid-Burke, R.N.

Financing Your Future

Q. I'm planning to retire next year and my wife and I will need to maximize my pension benefits. My financial adviser suggests I look into a single-life annuity payment. What's that?

A. Most pensions offer joint-and-survivor annuity benefits, which pay you and your spouse for as long as you both live. Depending on your ages, it's better to choose a single-life annuity, which usually pays a higher amount during your life.

For example, suppose your pension pays you and your spouse $730 a month. Your single-life annuity might pay $1,000 a month, but only during your life. You can use a portion of the $270 in extra pension money to pay the premiums on a life insurance policy, naming your spouse as the beneficiary. The insurance proceeds at your death will provide your spouse with an income after your death.

In order to use this plan, however, you must be insurable and you need your spouse's written permission to select the single-life annuity.

MORE ANIMALS FOR CHRISTMAS

Making sure needy children aren't overlooked on Christmas...that is the true spirit of the holiday season.

Again this year, KXDC is teaming with Gepetto's of Carmel for the third annual Animals for Christmas for needy boys and girls on the Monterey Peninsula.

As they've done in years past, KXDC will begin the 1989 Animals for Christmas toy drive by donating more than $1,000 worth of delightful stuffed animals from Gepetto's...and placing the gifts on Christmas trees at Wells Fargo Bank locations on the Monterey Peninsula.

Last year's Animals for Christmas was a big success. Now they're asking Monterey Bay area residents to join in by helping add to this year's toy collection, to make it the best yet. With the help of Peninsula Outreach, Santa Claus will deliver all the presents to needy kids just in time for the holidays.

New animals and toys may be dropped off at Gepetto's Workshop, Dolores between Ocean and Seventh Avenue in Carmel, Gepetto's Collectibles in the Crossroads Village Shopping Center, Carmel, at Wells Fargo Bank branches in Carmel, Carmel-By-The-Sea, Pebble Beach, Pacific Grove, Monterey, or at the KXDC studios, 450 Pacific St., Monterey.

COMMODORE SLOAT CHAPTER, NSDAR HOSTS PARTY

The Commodore Sloat Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold its annual traditional Christmas party and luncheon on Tuesday, Dec. 19, at noon.

The event will be held at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club in Pebble Beach. Chairman for the program is Mrs. Edward Flaherty, who will present "Clothes for the Holidays — Just for Fun."

Reservations may be made by contacting LaVerne Underwood.

ROTARY WHEELCHAIRS FOR AFRICA

Rotary District 523 composed of 44 Rotary clubs has received an international appeal for wheelchairs to serve polio and mining accident patients, and others confined to artificial support. The international appeal came from hospitals in the copperbelt region of Zambia, Africa, seeking help through International Rotary Clubs.

The Rotary Club of Carmel is now seeking new and used wheelchairs which are in working condition, and fold into a compact position for transport via donated air transport service to Zambia.

Contact any of nearly 3,000 Rotarians in District 523 or call Gary Luce at 624-0101 for prompt pick-up of a wheelchair.

CHILDREN OF FAMILY RESOURCE CENTER TO RECEIVE NEW TOYS AND NECESSITIES AT CHRISTMAS

More than 200 community members showed their support of the Family Resource Center, a United Way Agency dedicated to the prevention of child abuse, at the "Spirit of Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony," held Dec. 1 at the Monterey Plaza Hotel on Cannery Row.

Local dignitaries and community members donated new toys and supplies to the children of the Family Resource Center. Mayors from each of the peninsula cities were in attendance including: Mayor Dan Albert of Monterey; Mayor Jean Grace of Carmel; Mayor Morris Fischer of Pacific Grove; Mayor George Takahashi of Marina; Mayor Lance McClair of Seaside; and Mayor Robert Franco of Del Rey Oaks. Sen. Henry Mello and assistant Kathy Houston were also in attendance, and guest of honor Santa Claus made a special appearance.

The "Spirit of Christmas" toy drive is co-sponsored by the Monterey Plaza Hotel, KOCN FM 105 Radio, Pacific Western Bank, and the Jaycees of Monterey. Pacific Western Bank representative Mary Ann Lethel presented Family Resource Center Board President Bill McCrone with a check of $5,000 to benefit the center. Roger Pasquier, owner of KOCN, was master of ceremonies for the event and KOCN is an active co-sponsor through its on-air promotions and financial contributions. Vice president of the Monterey Plaza Hotel, John de Canha, hosted the tree-lighting ceremony and Monterey Plaza is the official drop-off point for the toy drive. Anne Maragnoni, representing the Jaycees of Monterey, coordinated the volunteer efforts of the Jaycees to decorate the Christmas tree and wrap all the toys to be distributed to the children.

Toys will be distributed on Friday, Dec. 22 to the Children of the Family Resource Center at the Monterey Plaza Hotel, from 10 a.m. to noon. More than 100 children will receive Christmas presents at that time.

NEW COORDINATOR FOR CARMEL VALLEY YOUTH CENTER

The Board of Directors of the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, Ford Road, recently appointed Ellen Karadimas as the center's new full-time administrative coordinator.

All keyed up

MEMBERS OF the Carmel Key Club International has been busy racking up hours of community service and raising money for charitable organizations this holiday season. The nine-member club has collected funds for the UNICEF drive, carved pumpkins for local convalescent homes, and served ice cream at the Carmel Halloween parade. Carmel Kiwanis member Chris Scott sponsors the organization, whose activities also include the Buddy Program, support of school and home vocational guidance. Members include Joannine Trudeau (front), Nathan Chow (left to right), Erik MacDonald, Joelle Colligard, Camille Beisher, Mirck Kozicki, Alysia Ogden, Anna Stene, and John Pac.

Mayoral meeting

FOUR AREA mayors gave Santa Claus their gift lists during "Spirit of Christmas" tree-lighting ceremony and toy drive at the Monterey Plaza Hotel, where more than 200 people attended to show their support of the Family Resource Center, a United Way agency. Toys will be distributed to FRC from 10 a.m. to noon, Dec. 22 at the hotel. Bending Santa's ear was (clockwise from left), Carmel mayor Jean Grace, Bob Franco of Del Rey Oaks, George Takahashi of Marina and Lance McClair of Seaside. Do you suppose water was on the top of their lists? (Gregg Wutke photo.)

Expecting Company?

You Can Have Your Guests, and Enough Water, too.

People on the Monterey Peninsula get visitors from all over the country. They come for the holidays. They come on vacation. Sometimes they stay for a while.

You can enjoy their company without worrying about running over your water rationing allocation. Just come by the offices of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District and apply for a variance.

If you have guests for 30 days or more (whether it's 10 guests for 3 days each, or 1 guest for the whole month), you can get an additional allocation of 36 gallons PER PERSON per day while they visit. You still can't leave the taps running, but it's enough water to take care of basic needs.

Call the water rationing office at 372-1148, or stop by at 1010 Cass St. in Monterey. We'll help get you and your guests taken care of.

It's the Hospitable Thing to Do.

CARMEL WOMAN AMONG WINNERS OF MARY KAY CAR

Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc. — famous for awarding cars to top achievers — has done it agian. Sandy Eaton of Carmel is the latest to win the use of a Pontiac Grand Am as a direct result of her accomplishments as an independent beauty consultant.

Eaton joins more than 1,500 Mary Kay independent businesswomen who are members of the company's VIP Club. VIP means Very Important Performer! The VIP program, which began in February 1984, marked the first time Mary Kay offered the use of a car as an incentive to beauty consultants. Traditionally, famous Mary Kay pink Buick Regals and Cadillacs were awarded only to sales directors.

Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc. manufactures premium skin, hair, nail and body care products including cosmetics, toiletries and fragrances. The personal care products are sold through a worldwide sales force of 185,000 independent beauty consultants. The company was founded in 1963 by Mary Kay Ash and her son Richard R. Rogers.

Bill Thomas of Monterey has been elected 1990 president of the Cypressaires, the local chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of BarberShop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA). A computer specialist at the Naval Postgraduate School, he also sings with I Cantori di Carmel, and is vice president of the Casanova-Oak Knoll Neighborhood Association.

MILLION DOLLAR PAY-OFF FOR CHOMP

The Auxiliary of the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula presented its final payment on a million dollar pledge to the hospital. The presentation occurred at a Community Hospital Foundation Board meeting on Nov. 30. Dr. Thedore Hooker, president of the board, thanked the auxiliary not only for their "very generous financial support, but also for their invaluable gift of thousands of hours of service."

In 1984 the auxiliary announced to the hospital's board of trustees that it was making a $1 million pledge, to be completed by 1990. At that time, $1 million dollars was more than the auxiliary had contributed during its 27-year history, but they were confident they could meet the ambitious goal.

And all that jazz...

JAZZ AND the classics took center stage at Carmel High School Music Department's annual concert, "Classics and All That Jazz" at Sunset Center. The Concert Band (above), took their bows along with music director/conductor Richard Robins after a performance. Meanwhile (below, right), members of "Super Sax," trombonist Forrest Melton and trumpet player Zachary Joseph, performed a Dizzy Gillespie be-bop number, while (below, left), a special vocal arrangement was added to the Charlie Parker tune Scrapple from the Apple, with Jennifer Carey, Benjamin Morgan and Denise Nishiguchi. Guest performers at the concert included Jessica Poyner and Eva Katsari.

The auxiliary's commitment is to enhance and support medical services for patients and provide a supportive and comfortable environment for their visitors. Its volunteer membership has, to date, designated $29,000 of the pledge for the purchase of a new shuttle bus to transport patients and visitors from the parking areas to the hospital, $200,000 for new equipment for the Mammography Center and $200,000 for the new hospital entry plaza.

Perhaps the most amazing aspect of their accomplishment is that the auxiliary is not a fund-raising entity. It is a service organization. All money for this pledge came from the auxiliary's work at the gift shop and snack bar, from associate membership dues and donations, and from contributions made by friends of the auxiliary.

Current auxiliary president, Joyce Schnal, said she is "elated that we accomplished our goal and proud that it was done through the dedication of our volunteers."

'PRICELESS POSITIONS' NOW AVAILABLE

Sydney A. Temple

A gathering of friends took place Dec. 2 at the home of Sydney A. Temple of Carmel, a former Episcopal minister, who died Nov. 21 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 77.

Mr. Temple was born April 4, 1912, in Santa Monica. He grew up in Dallas, Texas, and received a bachelor's degree from University of California at Los Angeles in 1931 and a doctorate from Columbia University in 1946.

He moved to Carmel from Menlo Park in 1976.

For 25 years, Mr. Temple was an Episcopal minister. He later taught Latin and Greek at Huron College in London, Ont., Canada; University of Massachusetts in Amherst and the University of Hawaii in Honolulu.

He was curator of Revolutionary and Civil War manuscripts at William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va., in the 1960s.

He was the author of many books and articles on history in England, where he owned a cottage in Dorchester-on-Thames, and in Carmel.

His local books were titled: The Carmel Mision, from Founding to Rebuilding, and Carmel by-the-Sea, from Aborigines to the Coastal Commission.

He lectured to local groups, including a talk before the Gentrain Society in September, two days before entering the hospital for treatment.

Mr. Temple was also a volunteer at the Tor House and Cooper-Molera Adobe Store. He was about to become a member of the Community Hospital Auxiliary.

Survivors include his wife of 57 years, Marguerite Miller Temple; a son, Hunter Temple of Brentwood (Los Angeles County); a daughter, Anne Tuttle of Centerville, Mass.; seven grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea with Paul Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the Community Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship Fund.

M.A. Vander Griend

Memorial services took place Nov. 29 in the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey, for Maurine A. Vander Griend of Carmel, who died Nov. 26 at home. She was 81.

She was born Dec. 25, 1907, in Lynden, Wash., and had lived in Carmel for six years.

She was a state education regional supervisor for home economics for 20 years and an adjunct professor of home economics at Fresno State University from 1973 to 1977.

A graduate of Bellingham Normal College in Lynden, Wash., she received a bachelor's degree from San Jose State University and a master's degree from Oregon State University.

She was a deacon of the First Presbyterian Church in Fresno and a member of First Presbyterian Church of Monterey, California Teacher's Association, American Vocational Association, California Home Economics Association, American Home Economics Association and National Education Association.

Also, she was a past president and life member of Soroptimist International of the Monterey Peninsula and a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, a national honor society.

Survivors include a sister, Adriana Behrman of Carmel; four nieces and a nephew.

Cremation took place at the Monterey City Cemetery, with burial in Woodlawn Cemetery in Lynden, Wash. Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be made to the Hospice of the Central Coast or the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey.

Elias Perreira

A prayer service took place Dec. 2 at El Estero Chapel of Mission Mortuary, for Elias Perreira of Carmel, who died Nov. 30 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 60.

Known as Leo, he was born Sept 21, 1929, in Hilo, Hawaii. He was an Army veteran of the Korean War, had lived on the peninsula for 38 years and worked for 36 years with Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

His first wife, Alice, died in December, 1981. He is survived by his wife, Patricia; a son, David, of Temperance, Mich; two step-daughters, Shirley Moore of Lacey, Wash., and Beverly Walley of Santa Cruz; two stepsons, John Jinishian of New York City and Robert Jinishian of Springfield, Md.; four brothers, Ernie, Eddie, Walter and Gilbert, all of Hollister; and three sisters, Adelikne Chanter of San Joan Bautista, Lorraine Wheeler of Clements and Caroline Robertson of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Burial, following the service, took place at San Carlos Cemetery.

The family prefers that any memorial contributions be sent to the Hospice of the Central Coast, P.O. Box 2480, Monterey 93942.

Alan H. Hanson

Private family services were scheduled for Alan Hjalmar Hanson of Pebble Beach, who died Nov. 29 at his home. He was 63.

Born June 5, 1926, in San Francisco, he attended the University of California at Berkeley and graduated from the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in Kings Point, N.Y.

Mr. Hanson served in the Navy in the South Pacific during World War II and for eight years in the Naval Reserve afterward.

He and his family moved to Pebble Beach in 1967, where he was a sailing enthusiast, a longtime member of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and, at the time of his death, was serving as chairman of the advisory board to the Salvation Army Monterey Peninsula Corps.

Survivors include his wife, Elizabeth; three daughters, Jennette and Amy of Sand Point, Idaho, and Karen Harms of Arcadia; a son, Joel of Wrangell, Alaska; a sister, Peg Watwood of Salinas; and three grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions be sent to the Salvation Army Monterey Peninsula Corps or to the Hospice of the Central Coast Caring Project.

Seniors program needs participants

Carmel Police Department's "Seniors Helping Seniors" program has need for two types of seniors: those who would like to help and those who desire help.

According to Cathy Dampier, desk officer, there are seniors who are looking for some type of community involvement to donate their time and others who are lonely, "shut-ins," or are "at-risk" due to medical or physical reasons and desire contact with someone who cares about their welfare.

Under the program, senior volunteers call participants of the program by telephone from the Carmel Police Department. If for some reason the recipient doesn't answer the phone, the volunteer alerts the police dispatcher and a patrol unit is sent to check on the participant's welfare.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer or a recipient of the "Seniors Helping Seniors" program is encouraged to call the Carmel Police Department at 624-6403.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Happy Hanukkah

From the Carmel Pine Cone
Dec. 24, 1981

Many of us in the Western world seem to forget thsat our blessed Lord came from Jewish roots, as did Mary and Joseph. They celebrated as a family all the Jewish feasts and festivals.

One of the most joyful is Hannukah, the celebration of the lights in dedication. It honors the victory of Judas Maccabeus in 165 B.C. over the Syrian King Antiochus Epiphanes, an enemy of the Jewish faith.

Each evening the Menorah, or seven-branched candelabrum, is lighted at home. On the first night one candle is lighted and it is called the "servant candle," and each night for eight nights another is added. This symbolizes that the light of faith is certain to grow if only a remnant of the faithful remains.

Each evening the servant candle gives light to the others to remind us that we too are the strongest when we serve. At Hanukkah and Christmas we must resolve that we should not just give things, but give of ourselves, the big smile, the big-hearted action, the kindly gesture. It's the heart strings, not the purse strings that count.

Christ's father expects more than our money. We are the coins stamped with his image.

The poorest man in the world is he whose wealth is money. And the only thing we get in this world on a silvewr platter is tarnish. Amen.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Today's working-mother trend has created a demand for nannies, but new immigration rules bar young women from abroad who traditionally spend a year or two living with a family, taking care of young children. Now agencies are recruiting American women,m and that includes grandnannies. "Experienced older women are just great with young children, says one agency head who encourages such women to consider child care as a second career. "The families we've placed older women with literally adopt them as surrogate family members." Licensed agencies investigate applicants and aloso screen families for compatible environments.

NEED FOR FOSTER CARE HOMES REMAINS

The holidays come and go. The need for foster care homes remains. Monterey County Foster Parents need helping people to join their sharing team to care for a baby, teens, sibling groups and minorities, especially Hispanic children. It takes time to become licensed. We need people to reach out and share their heart and home.

Those people who would like to share their heart but not their home can help by going to any of the following banks and take a gift tag from the bank's tree to be an Operation Satellite Santa or leave a toy.

BECOMING LICENSED FOSTER CARE HOME

Child abuse does not take a holiday. Help brighten a child's future by becoming a licensed foster care home. Call the Office for Community and Children's Services for further informaiton at 899-8061 or 755-4660.

LAW COLLEGE AWARDS SCHOLARSHIPS

Monterey College of Law awarded scholarships to eight students for the 1990 Spring Semester. The sums received by the students ranged from $400 to $1,755 and were based on academic and/or financial need.

Scholarship recipients are Sandy Little-DeWitt, second year; Kathleen Card, Annie Fortino, Jeff Gobell and Laika Grant, third year; and Mike Benoit, Chris Clarke and Celia Hawkins, fourth year.

Monterey College of Law is a community law school, accredited in 1980 by the Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California. Classes are held in the evening and most students are over 30 years old and work full-time.

Richard Tyler looks back on his Sunset Center tenure

By ANNE PAPINEAU

THE CEILING-HIGH collection of performers' portraits that rose behind the director's desk at Sunset Center has been packed away. Gone too is their owner, Richard Tyler, who is on the road, arranging the 1990 seasons for the Carmel Festival of Dance and Lively Arts series. His 13-year tenure in that office officially ends with 1989.

"I would like to think that the people involved would like to keep the atmosphere we have here, the caliber we have and the voice of the arts that is such an intrinsic part of Carmel," Tyler said last week. He was back to briefly touch base before travelling to Southern California and New York to book performers for Sunset Center.

Booking is just one of the responsibilities Tyler faced annually during his tenure as Sunset Center director. It's a multi-faceted role that Tyler encountered almost by surprise. In late 1976 he was primed to begin an active retirement directing plays and writing. Someone suggested he apply for the Sunset Center opening, and he won the post, succeeding the retiring Frank Riley.

Now Tyler says he looks forward to retirement, which he hopes to spend directing plays and serving as a consultant for emerging California presenters. He said he is considering contracts to direct theater in Chicago and Hawaii, as well as to serve as consultant to a performing arts center located out of state.

"I'll work as much as I want to work. But my work is still nurturing and furthering the culture of the peninsula," he asserted.

The retiring Sunset Center director referred to a Carmel Pine Cone article published when he first accepted the job in 1976.

"There were things mentioned in that article I would still like to do. There were things I would like to have done but couldn't because I got to know the territory, so to speak," he observed.

Looking back, Tyler remembers some achievements with pride. But he lists disappointments, also.

"I feel very proud I could sustain and maintain the Festival of Firsts Playwriting Competition. It's nationally recognized," he said. "But I would like to have taken it further. The original concept of the festival was not only to do the new plays but also some of the old plays done here first, works by Jeffers and Mary Austin. Just time and space, staffing and money stopped us."

"I'm very proud of how the Festival of Dance developed and very pleased with the fact I started the Lively Arts series to bring performers not brought in under any other aegis," he added.

Tyler recalls as triumphs the Sunset Center appearances of Pat Carroll in Gertrude Stein, Gertrude Stein, and the Guthrie Theater's dramatic staging of Great Expectations in the gothic-arched theater of the former Sunset School.

"I also think the Homecrafters' Marketplace is a great Carmel event. I guided it and watched it closely to make it a community-minded crafts show," Tyler explained. "I started Christmas in Carmel when I came here, for a neighborly kind of recognition of Christmas. I was very, very sad this year to see the city chose to go in a different direction."

The city and Richard Tyler have indeed appeared to go in different directions on various issues during the past year.

In March, City Administrator Doug Schmitz announced that Tyler and recreation director Beth Kastrup would no longer report directly to him, but to the city director of administrative services.

Schmitz explained this change was effected "for the purpose of working toward the consolidation of these two departments, recreation and culture."

"I was very fortunate in that I had councils and commissions who always recognized the importance culture plays in this city," Tyler explained. "That has eroded to some degree. I had never worked with a bureaucracy before. There were surprises in the relationships between various levels of government.

"I think they're downplaying the very strength that should be. This city has a great thing going. Carmel had culture as a recognized department when other cities were trying to figure out ways to work it into their parks and recreation. Other cities are now adding culture. These aren't just my assumptions."

The retiring director still has more work to do before finishing his tenure.

"I will negotiate contracts in New York for the dance and Lively Arts series. I have to talk price, date, touring, and because we have a small house, I have to work within a very specific budget.

"I sat here as a department head for the city and realized that while the cultural department was a major part of the city's budget, as always, the arts need protection and explanation to some people," he added. "So I always felt it was more than just a department job, that it extended out into the people a great deal more. I was so pleased to make Sunset Center so much a center for the people."

With some major goals unmet, Tyler nonetheless maintains that "this city and the residents of this city have been very good to me. I don't think I've given them as much as they've given me.

"There's a great pride in being able to say, 'I'm from Carmel.' It means so much in a very civil connotation. It may sound snobbish but it really isn't. A cultural civilization is a very human and advanced civilization. I think that's why Carmel is held so high in esteem."

RICHARD TYLER retires Dec. 28 as director of Sunset Center, a post he has held since 1976. (Mac McDonald photograph).

Camerata Singers perform works of Italian Renaissance

THE PREMIERE U.S. performance of Francisco Feo's Invitatorio per la notte del SS. Natale will be presented by the Camerata Singers of Monterey County. Concerts are scheduled Friday through Sunday, Dec. 15-17, in Salinas, Carmel and Jolon.

Italian Baroque music is the theme of this year's holiday offering. The Camerata Singers, directed by Vahe Aslanian, will also perform the Mass in F major by Leonardo Leo.

Both Francisco Feo and Leonardo Leo were 18th century Neopolitan composers who in their day were famous throughout Europe for their contributions to the developing language of European music. Although the Neopolitan musicians were mainly concerned with opera they wre also involved in the composition of church music.

The Invitatorio per la notte del SS. Natale (the opening sentences for the Matins service on the night of the holy birth), was transcribed and edited by Aslanian, from the holograph manuscripts which he brought back on microfilm from European libraries.

Also rounding out the concert will be Concerto grosso in g minor, Opus 6, No. 8, called the "Christmas Concerto," by Arcangelo Corelli. This work is one of 12 concerti grossi which Corelli composed before 1700 and perhaps as early as 1682.

Soloists for the Camerata Singers will be Gail MacGowan and Annalisa Winberg, sopranos; Cathy Findley, alto; Gene Albin, tenor; and Roy Stevens, baritone.

Peformances will take place at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 15 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Salinas; 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 16 at the Carmel Mission Basilica, and at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 17 at Mission San Antonio in Jolon.

Tickets are $12 for adults and $6 for students.

Tickets can be purchased at Do Re Mi, Carmel; Center Stage Ticketing, Monterey; and Gadsby's Music, Salinas. For further information, call 484-1217.

Scuba divers can reserve at Point Lobos

BEGINNING Jan. 1, Point Lobos State Reserve, three miles south of Carmel on Highway 1, will offer Scuba divers the convenience of making reservations for dives in this very popular unit of the California State Park System.

Parking availability and preservation of the underwater resources that make Point Lobos one of the most beautiful and undisturbed coastal areas of California, necessitates allowing into the reserve a maximum of 15 dive teams (two or three divers per team) each day. The reservation system will allow scuba divers the opportunity to plan their dive trips in advance, rather than having to wait in a line for long hours and even then perhaps not being allowed to dive in the reserve that day.

Reservations can be made up to 28 days in advance by calling MISTIX at 1-800-444-7275. There is a non-refundable $6 reservation fee per dive team, plus the regular $3 per vehicle day use fee.

The reservation fee can be paid using VISA or MasterCard, or if made at least 10 days in advance, by mailing a money order or personal check to MISTIX.

The $3 per vehicle day use fee will be collected upon arrival at Point Lobos State Reserve. The total $9 fee will permit one dive team with one vehicle to enter Point Lobos for the day.

Upon arrival, each diver must show proof of diver certification. The only acceptable proof is the diver certification card or certificate from a recognized organization such as NAUI, PADI, SSI or YMCA. The name of one member of the dive team will be printed on the MISTIX ticket. The reservation is not transferable and is not refundable. If the person named on the ticket is not one of the members of the dive team, the ticket will not be valid. A diver cannot be a member of more than one team.

Should any of the 15 daily dive slots not be reserved, those spaces will be made available by a lottery held at the Point Lobos entrance station daily at 8:30 a.m. There is no longer an advantage for scuba divers without reservations in arriving at the park very early in the morning or the night before. Also, there is no legal parking available along Highway 1 near the Point Lobos entrance gate.

For additional information phone Point Lobos Ranger Glen McGowan at 624-4909.

Ebenezer Scrooge — The Untold Story

An original two-act play for children, Ebenezer Scrooge — The Untold Story, will be presented in a free performance Wednesday, Dec. 20 at the Cherry Foundation.

Produced by the Cherry Foundation and Applegate Playhouse, the production presents a lighthearted allegory set in the Fourth Dimension, following the exploits of Scrooge in Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol.

Written and directed by Ellen Saxby, the play features Jennifer Scholl, Brandon Milligan, Cheyenne Stoney-Stevens, Thaya Saxby, Dianne Bautista, Rachel Smith, Cooper Scollan, Navarre Bautista, Robin Retherford, Chaz Swallow and John Martine.

Curtain is at 7 p.m. The Cherry Foundation is located at Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel. For more information, call 624-7491.

Winnie the Pooh

Several of Christopher Robin's many adventures are brought to life on the Monterey Peninsula College Main Stage during the run of Winnie the Pooh.

Playing through Dec. 23, this MPC Theatre Company production is a musical version of A.A. Milne's children's fantasy. Directed by Tom McKenzie, the production features choreography by Laura McEvoy, musical direction by Barney Hulse and scenery designed by Bill Doggett.

The lovable Bear of Very-Little-Brain but Very-Good-Intentions will be played by Carl Palme. Laura McEvoy plays Christopher Robin.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday as well as 2 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 14-17. Due to popular demand, performances have been added at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 17, 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 22 and 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 23. The play is approximately one hour, 10 minutes in length.

Winnie the Pooh is suitable for children 4 years of age and older. Parents are requested not to bring younger children or infants to the performance. Parents of children who will be celebrating birthdays the day of the performance are asked to inform the theater staff when they will be attending the show so special arrangements and activities can be scheduled.

Tickets are $9 general; $7 for students, military and senior citizens. A special price of $1 will be charged for one child under age 13 accompanied by a general admission ticket holder. Otherwise, admission for children 12 and under is $4.50.

For reservations, call the MPC box office, 646-4213, between 4 and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, or Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Little Angel's Rest; Angels in Flight

The Staff Players Repertory Company unveils a Christmas production featuring original tales of useless orphans, magic dolls and "mudlarks" — 19th century street boys. Little Angel's Rest and Angels in Flight are staged at Carmel's Indoor Forest Theater.

These portraits of harshness and indifference confronting warmth and care, have been the Staff Players' traditional holiday offering for nearly two decades.

The family shows feature Henry Guevara, Norman Stottmeister, Leonore Opalach, Jeff Heyer, Thomas R. Sanchez and others.

Final performances are set at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 14-17. Tickets are $9 general, $7 for students and senior citizens. The theater is at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea. For reservations, call the theater, 624-1531, or Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561.

The Olio Revue

The traditional holiday offering of 19th century song, dance and skits, The Olio Revue, runs through January at California's First Theatre.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, except Dec. 22-23. There will be a special Olio Revue staging for New Year's Eve.

The theater, the oldest in the state, is located at the corner of Scott and Pacific streets in historic downtown Monterey.

Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and teens and $4 for subteens. The theater box office is open 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and 1 to 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

For tickets or information, call 375-4916 or 649-5561.

Frankie & Johnny in the Claire de Lune

The GroveMont Theater has opened its 1989-90 season with Tarence McNally's Frankie and Johnny in the Claire de Lune.

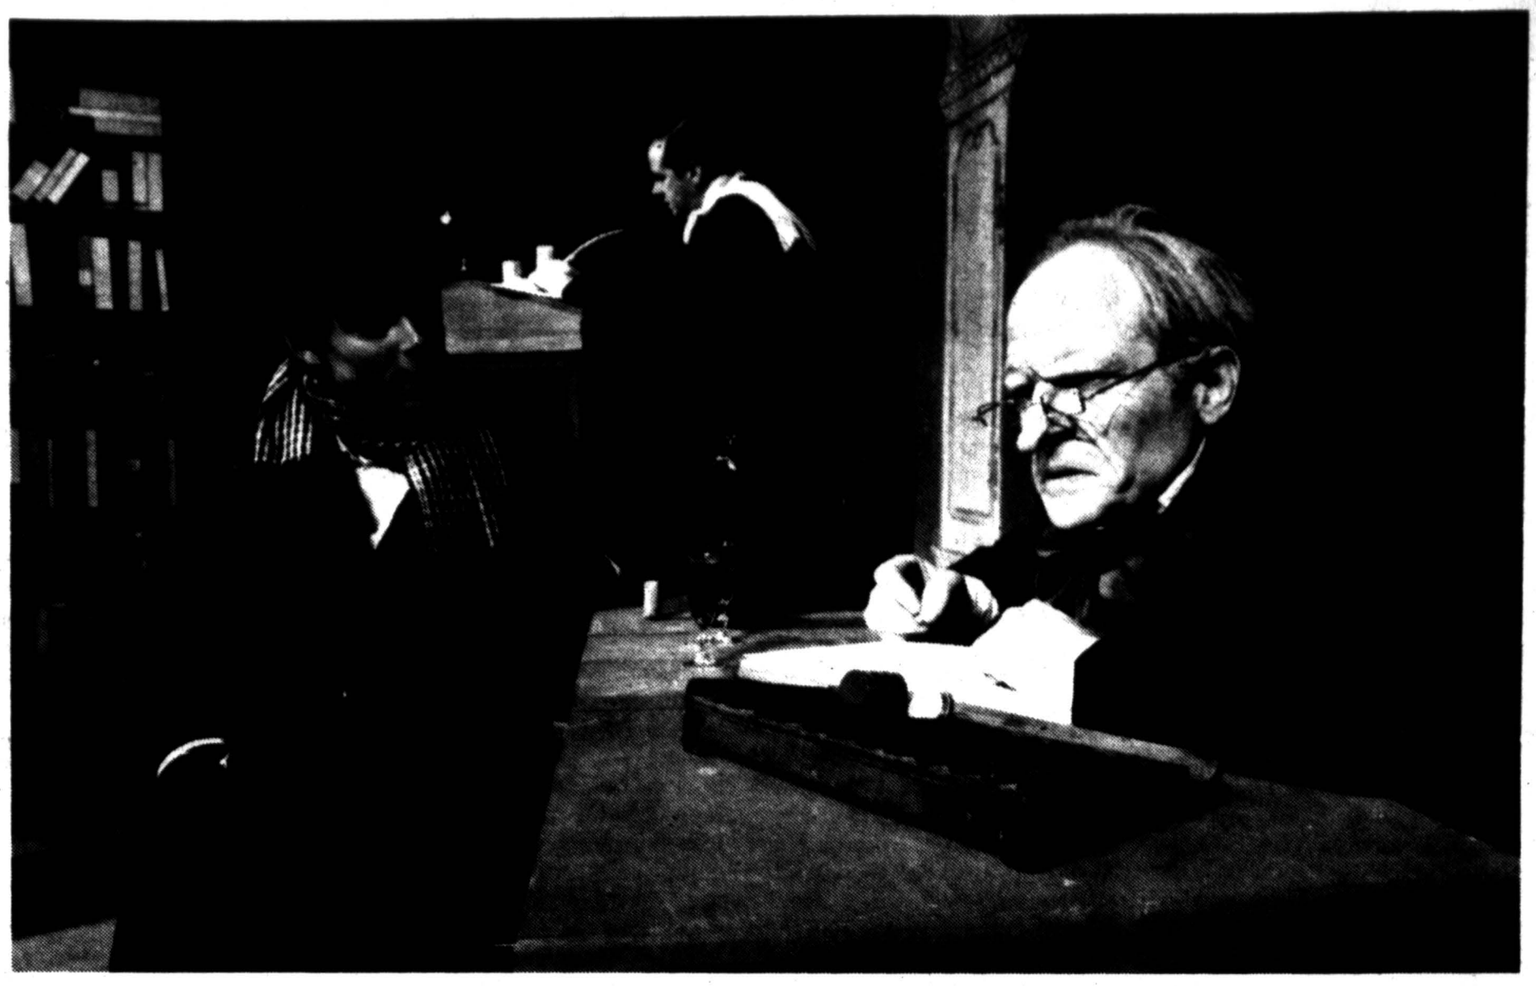
The production runs at 8 p.m. Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays and 7 p.m. Sundays through Dec. 23. Cafe seating opens one hour before showtime with a variety of sandwiches, hors d'oeuvres, desserts, beer, wine and soft drinks available before the show and at intermission.

Directed by GroveMont resident director Sid Cato, the production features a two-person cast: GroveMont's artist-in-residence John Rousseau and Monterey actress Kathy Deskin-Jacobs.

The production is a humorous and romantic love story that "intertwines classical music, the dread of loneliness, the fear of commitment, and the need to hold and be held into a beautiful and unforgettable chronicle in these alienated times," says local dramatist Dan Gotch.

Due to strong language and some nudity, the production has been rated R by the management and no children will be allowed. Tickets are $8.50 general admission; $7 for students, seniors and military Thursdays and Sundays; $9.50 and $8 Fridays and Saturdays, and can be obtained by calling Center Stage Ticketing at 649-5561. For reservations call 649-6852.

The GroveMont Theater Arts Center is at 320 Hoffman in New Monterey.



Unmerry Christmas

BOB CRATCHIT, Scrooge's nephew and Mr. Scrooge himself (Robert Colter), share the stage in the special-effects punctuated production of A Christmas Carol. The play continues through Sunday, Dec. 17 at the Wharf Theater in Monterey.

ALTA VS. BAJA

Alta California was separated from Baja California in March, 1804, and Monterey was named as its capital.

A LASTING IMPRESSION

Robert Louis Stevenson arrived for a short visit in Monterey on Sept. 1, 1879. Although his stay was brief, the effect of the Peninsula on the writer was deep and lasting.

Guilt-free holiday dining the specialty of Skinny's

For the past seven years, Skinny's Diet Foods & Desserts has been providing peninsula residents with only the finest and healthiest recipes.

Don't be mislead, the restaurant isn't strictly for dieters — it's for people who care about what they eat.

Owner and longtime area resident Violet Longaker has personally created Skinny's recipes, which utilize only low-fat and non-fat milk — all servings are approved by the American Heart Association.

Eat to your heart's content — it's all healthy. Entrees include pizza, lasagna, enchiladas, fresh salads, fresh turkey breast, tofu and pasta salads and tuna packed in water instead of oil.

For dessert select one of the four yummie flavors of frozen yogurt, which come with low-fat or non-fat ingredients.

This holiday season Violet wants to thank all her patrons for helping her build a healthy and successful business on the Monterey Peninsula.

Skinny's Diet Foods & Desserts is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday; until 7 p.m. Saturday; and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The restaurant is located at 484 Del Monte Center, near the front door of Macy's. Phone 372-0202.

SPCA provides pet car tips for the holiday season

As you button up your coat against winter's chill, The SPCA of Monterey County, A Humane Society, reminds you that pets need special care during cold weather.

The SPCA offers the following advice for the winter months ahead:

• Antifreeze can be deadly. Its sweet taste attracts animals, but even a small puddle of antifreeze can kill or seriously injure a cat or dog. Check your car's heater and radiator hoses for cracks, and the radiator for seepage. When adding antifreeze, use a funnel and clean up any spillage, since it evaporates slowly. Store containers out of reach.

• A warm engine in a parked car often attracts cats who are left outside on cold nights. On cold mornings, be sure to bang on the hood before starting the engine to scare off unsuspecting felines. The best protection for your cat is to keep him or her indoors year 'round.

• While dogs should not be left outdoors when the temperature drops sharply, dogs that often stay outside require a draft-free, watertight shelter. A doghouse should be no mroe than 12 inches longer or 3 inches higher than the dog, since the animal's body heat cannot warm a doghouse that is too large. The floor should be raised a few inches off the ground and the doghouse should face away from the wind. Dogs need fresh, clean water available even during the winter. Check the outdoor water supply frequently to make sure that it hasn't frozen over. Avoid using metal containers in freezing temperatures.

• Pets may need more food in the winter, since keeping warm depletes energy. The warm dry atmosphere of the house may dry out an animal's skin and coat.

Tony Seton outlines car purchase procedures

Tony Seton, writer and television journalist, will sign his new book Right Car, Right Price on Saturday, Dec. 16. The reception is set noon to 2 p.m. at the Thunderbird Bookshop.

"The public is tired of playing games and they're tired of being hoodwinked. People would rather go in for root canal surgery than go into a dealership to buy an auto." This quote is from the head of the National Automobile Dealers Association. Tony Seton agrees in his book Right Car, Right Price. Working at a car dealership he learned the inside story and reveals the secrets of the car business and how the game is played.

Seton gained a national reputation for excellence as the business/economics producer for ABC network television news. In addition to a decade of investigative journalism, his credits include producer of coverage of the Watergate trial and hearings, and of the Barbara Walters' news interviews.

Sculpture preview

MAASAI WOMAN* is among the limited edition bronzes by Carmel Valley artist Kris Swanson that will be featured at a reception set Thursday, Dec. 14. The opening reception will take place 4 to 8 p.m. Thursday at the Carmel Valley Inn, located on Carmel Valley Road at Los Laureles Grade in Carmel Valley. The artist will donate 10 percent of all proceeds to Watsonville earthquake relief.

WHAT'S PLAYING AT THE MOVIES

ALL DOGS GO TO HEAVEN: Animated shaggy dog story about a roguish German Shepherd (whose voice is provided by Burt Reynolds), whose love for gambling almost becomes his undoing. Rated G. At the Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

BACK TO THE FUTURE II: Those zany time travellers Michael J. Fox and Christopher Lloyd are back in this sequel about a youth who goes back to his parents' high school days and alters the course of the future. This time he also goes forward into the future, with equally history-altering results. Directed again by Robert Zemeckis (Who Framed Roger Rabbit.) Rated PG. At the State III Cinemas. 372-4555.

BLACK RAIN: Michael Douglas stars as a New York City detective who is sent to Osaka, Japan to deliver a murderous gangster (yakuza) to the authorities there, but the villan gives him the slip, setting off a chase in which Douglas butts heads with Japanese police as well as the country's culture. Co-stars Andy Garcia as his partner and Takakura Ken as an Osaka detective assigned to escort the two Americans. Directed by Ridley Scott (Blade Runner.) Rated R. At the Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

BLAZE: Features Paul Newman as charismatic former Louisiana Governor Earl Long and his much-publicized affair with stripper Blaze Starr (newcomer Lolita Davidovich) in 1959. Directed by Ron Shelton (Bull Durham). Rated R. Opens Dec. 15 at Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

CRIMES & MISDEMEANORS: Woody Allen's long-awaited comedy-drama stars the usual stellar cast of characters, including Woody himself, as well as Mia Farrow, Angelica Huston, Martin Landau and others, with intertwining storylines featuring Woody chasing an oblivious Farrow and Landau's problems with his mistress Huston. Rated PG-13. At the Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

DAD: Jack Lemmon stars as a 75-year-old retiree who battles premature senility and an aloof family in this comedy-drama directed by Gary David Goldberg. Ted Danson stars as the self-involved son whose priorities suddenly shift when his father is hospitalized, and Olympia Dukakis as Lemmon's domineering wife. Rated PG. At the Hill Theatre. 375-2800.

FAMILY BUSINESS: An all-star cast featuring Sean Connery, Dustin Hoffman and Matthew Broderick heads this story about a grandfather, father and son who work the family "business," in this case robbery and other crimes. Directed by Sidney Lumet. Rated R. Opens Dec. 15 at State III Cinemas. 372-4555.

HARLEM NIGHTS: Directorial debut for comic superstar Eddie Murphy (who also wrote the screenplay), stars Murphy, fellow comic Richard Pryor and Danny Aiello (Do the Right Thing). Comedy takes place in Harlem during the turbulent late '20s and '30s when the Cotton Club was at its height. Rated R. At Crossroads Cinemas (plays on both screens). 624-2792.

THE LITTLE MERMAID: Animated feature film from Disney is based on a story by Hans Christian Andersen. It's about a mermaid who wants to join the human world, but she must make some big sacrifices to do it. Rated G. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

LOOK WHO'S TALKING: Kirstie Alley is the single mother, John Travolta the prospective father, and Bruce Willis is the baby's voice in this romantic comedy directed by Amy Heckerling. Gimmick is that Willis (as the baby), makes funny or cogent comments on what's going on with only the audience privy to his commentary. Rated PG-13. At the State III Cinemas. 372-4555.

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S CHRISTMAS VACATION: The accident-prone Griswold family, led by the bumbling, but well-meaning father (Chevy Chase), returns for a holiday go-around, this time they're staying home for the holidays and having the relatives over for a "nice, quiet" Christmas. Co-stars Beverly D'Angelo and Randy Quaid. Rated PG-13. At the Regency Theatre. 375-6696.

PRANCER: Just in time for the holidays comes this live-action fantasy about a little girl who nurses a injured reindeer she believes to be one of Santa's own. Stars Cloris Leachman, Abe Vigoda, Sam Elliott, and Rebecca Harrell. Rated G. At the Hill Theatre. 375-2800.

ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW: A send-up of remembered monster movies, with the added twist of music — "The Time Warp," "Over at the Frankenstein Place," and an audience that seems to know the lines better than the actors. A long-standing cult classic. Rated R. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

SEX, LIES AND VIDEOTAPE: The relatively quiet life of a yuppie couple is turned upside down by the appearance in town of a mysterious college acquaintance of the husband. Debut film by Steven Soderbergh won the Golden Palm award at recent Cannes Film Festival. Film explores deep sexual and emotional feelings, deceipt and self-deceipt, and relationships with a video camera as mirror for characters' lives. Rated R. At the Carmel Village Theater with 'Shirley Valentine.' 624-5341.

SHE-DEVIL: Roseanne Barr, as the wronged wife, metes out sweet and nasty revenge on her philandering husband (Ed Begley Jr.) and his romance novelist mistress (Meryl Streep) in this comedy directed by Susan Seidelman (Desperately Seeking Susan.) Rated PG-13. At the Crossroads Cinemas. 624-2792.

SHIRLEY VALENTINE: Pauline Collins reprises her one-woman stage role in this energetic British comedy about a bored housewife who learns something about herself during a vacation sojourn in Greece. Tom Conti stars as the handsome charmer who gets her to thinking about the choices in her life. Rated R. At the Carmel Village Theater with 'sex, lies and videotape.' 624-5341.

STEEL MAGNOLIAS: An all-star cast heads this feature film version of the stage comedy. Directed by Herbert Ross, the film is the story about the relationship between six Southern women and their men and stars Sally Field, Dolly Parton, Shirley MacLaine, Darryl Hannah, Olympia Dukakis and newcomer Julia Roberts (Mystic Pizza). The men in their lives include Tom Skerritt, Sam Shepard, Dylan McDermott, and Kevin J. O'Conner. Rated PG. At Golden Bough Theater. 624-4044.

THELONIOUS MONK: STRAIGHT, NO CHASER: Fascinating portrait of legendary jazz pianist and composer Thelonious Monk, with documentary footage, backstage interviews and plenty of Monk's enigmatic music. Produced by noted jazz fan Clint Eastwood. Rated PG-13. Opens Dec. 15 at the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

WAR OF THE ROSES: Kathleen Turner and Michael Douglas star as a squabbling couple whose divorce proceedings turn rather nasty in this black comedy directed by Danny DeVito, who also co-stars as a divorce attorney. Rated R. Opens Dec. 8 at Cinema 70. 373-4777.

THEATER REVIEW

By James P. Kinney

The shepherd's play staged at Mission San Juan Bautista

EL TEATRO Campesino of San Juan Bautista offers our part of California a special treat every Christmas season with its December productions of La Pastorela and La Virgen del Tepeyac.

These historic plays, which reach back to the roots of modern Western drama in medieval Europe, are performed alternate years in the Old Mission of San Juan Bautista. Although the performances are mostly in Spanish, the dramatic action leaps over language barriers and this non-Spanish speaking critic had no problem following the storyline of La Pastorela, this year's offering.

In his program notes, Director Tony Curiel says: "El Teatro Campesino initially presented La Pastorela as a puppet show. Over the years the play evolved into a pageant, performed on the streets and plaza of historic San Juan Bautista. We then brought this spectacular dramatic work into the Mission, a space that accommodates both the human and the universal qualities of the play..."

An old hermit (Andres Gutierrez) has been fasting and praying 20 years to prepare himself for the birth of Christ. He has a dream in which he sees the forces of Hell preparing to wage war against this miraculous event and the forces of Heaven.

Lucifer (Eduardo Robledo), dressed in black and mounted on a black horse, appears at the mouth of Hell amid flames and smoke and rages against the Blessed Event. He orders his assistant, Satanas (Francine Torres), to search the earth to see if the news is true. Satanas returns and announces she has indeed found the Christ Child, born in a stable in Bethlehem.

The hermit awakens from his dream and looks down to see a group of ragtag shepherds on their way to Bethlehem to adore the Son of God. They invite him to accompany them on their journey.

Lucifer ("Luzbel" in Spanish) orders Satanas and the lesser devils from Hell to disrupt the shepherds' journey by any form of trickery and deceit they can devise.

But the shepherds have problems of their own, being weak and fallible human beings. Bartolo (Cesar Flores), a fat, lazy shepherd, would rather sleep. Vato (Fran Hernandez) and Gila (Mary Severo) are too much in love to concentrate on the journey. Cucharon (Juan Angel) falls for a few of Satanas' tricks.

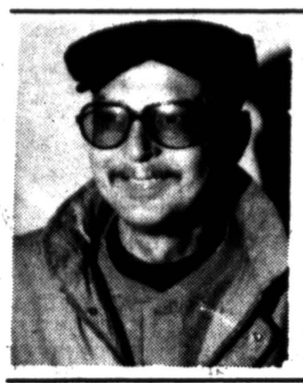
St. Michael (Vilma Silva), surrounded by a host of angels, appears from the court of Heaven, blowing a magical note on her silver horn and sternly orders the shepherds to resume their interrupted journey to Bethlehem.

The majesty and humanity of the play emerges from the two levels on which it simultaneously occurs. The war between the forces of Heaven and Hell also involves the battle for the hearts and souls of mortal men, the shepherds (i.e. US!), and reaches to the core of the Christian mystery of the Incarnation, that God chose to come to earth as a poor human Child, born to a Jewish maiden, to show His/Her eternal compassion for suffering, needful mankind.

This production, however, is as full of song, music, dancing and comedy as it is of the serious drama suggested by the story. Almost 50 actors, singers, dancers and musicians are involved in this beautiful, colorful, highly emotional production and it is clear from the start that this is a joint labor of love for all involved. The enthusiasm is contagious, from the littlest angel to the oldest shepherd. The dancers are vibrant and alive. The singers glow with excitement and fervor. Energy, rage, passion and affection flicker across the beautifully alive faces and jump out joyfully at the audience, seated in the pews of what is, after all, a church.

Eduardo Robledo's "Luzbel" is powerful, dark and manly. Vilma Silva's "San Miguel" is strong, high-minded and filled with divine righteousness. The sneering, contorted, leering faces of the many devils (a few of whom I have met occasionally after one too many drinks) contrast brilliantly with the serene, spiritual faces of the heavenly angels. Andres Gutierrez's "Hermitano" is a masterpiece of comic crochety old age — down to the quirky walk, the jerky gestures, the querulous voice. And Francine Torres' "Satanas" is a riveting combination of demonic energy, frenetic sexiness and perpetual motion mischief. (I once knew a girl like that in Milwaukee.)

La Pastorela plays only through December 17th on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p.m., Sundays at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling 1-623-2444.



JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Big as amber sky

SOME JAZZ vocalists spark admiration; others call up deep affection. Etta Jones belongs smack dab in the latter category. Along with Billie Holiday and Dinah Washington, Miss Jones has a personal sound that combines innocence and street smarts. One hears the waiflike longing and cares what happens to her *off*stage.

The lady worked Kuumbwa Jazz Center in Santa Cruz with 20-year partner Houston Person, tenorman who makes a wide warm sound. Big as amber sky. What they do best, nobody does better — the classic R&B ballad, the midtempo standard given rough sweet edges. That night they went far beyond technique into a kind of timeless maturity. He was sure; she glowed.

The friendly crowd heard pianist Stan Hope offer both spare melodic lines and forceful block chords. Cecil Brooks III pulled out all stops, showing us a complete drummer. Peter Martin Weiss covered acoustic bassists from Milt Hinton to young Lonnie Plaxico — an unassuming survey.

Person produced Cecil's first album as leader. It's at shops now — The Collective out of Muse Records. Knockout personnel: Plaxico, Geri Allen at the piano, Greg Osby (alto and soprano saxes), Gary Thomas (tenor).

JAZZ PIANIST Ace Hill has been firing up audiences for many years via blues-based, often inspired romps. Now the man's academic degrees in history will help him turn on listeners another way.

Hartnell College announces a three-unit course: Ace Hill on History of Afro-American Cultures.

"The class will start in late January," Hill says. "Registration shortly beforehand. People signing up or calling the registrar's office should ask about History 48. We'll study origins and development, social concepts, black institutions. You know that a piece of jazz history will be included."

A Monterey resident these days, Ace evolved the course materials. He notes that History 48 satisfies A.A. Degree requirements for Humanities. If only this course is taken, the cost's $15.

Jazz Tides...

KITTY MARGOLIS has been added to Monterey Bay Club's talent lineup for December (12/21). The extraordinary vocalist will swing then with a trio that could brighten any venue: Dick Hindman on piano, drummer Vince Lateano, John Wiitala and acoustic bass.

Los Angeles jazz writer Scott Yanow covered the last Monterey Jazz Festival. His review in this month's JazzTimes says: "Highpoint of (Sunday) was a wonderful new jazz singer, Kitty Margolis, who combines together the scatting of Anita O'Day and the phrasing of Betty Carter with her own happy personality. Backed by the superlative Dick Hindman Trio...Kitty Margolis proved to be the discovery of this year's festival and promises to be an important jazz singer in the 1990's."

Miss Margolis has been appearing in the two bay areas (San Francisco and Monterey) for some years. Through hard times and easier times, she has kept her vision — rich improvisation, instrumental dynamics, tasteful book, each gig seen as "a party where I'm the hostess." The words "new" and "discovery" mean that national recognition flowers. Right on.

Those who get KJAZ Radio may hear Kitty on Sunday night (12/17). The See's Candy Show will feature taped portions of her album release bash last summer at San Francisco's Great American Music Hall. Starts at eight o'clock; Bud Spangler hosting.

Other Monterey Bay Club bookings: Smith and Gail Dobson (12/14), Spang-a-lang (12/15-16), Bob Phillips and Terry Miller (12/17), Don Pendergrass and pals (12/18), Manhattan saxist Laura Dryer (12/19), Higher Feelings (12/20).

Alaska in January? Yep. Between sets at MBC, vocalist Madeline Eastman revealed that she'll be playing Fairbanks (1/18-28) with pianist Dean Burris. "We'll do eight gigs," she said — "including a festival."

Miss Eastman's appearances here have become magnet events. That means: I no longer fret if this friend or that doesn't call for a spell. We'll meet, I've come to understand, the next time Madeline steps into Sheraton performance space. These casual reunions say an important thing about her style and tunes. Her style and tunes retain freshness, wear very well indeed.

Oldtime boxing buffs always argue which fighters were the finest "pound for pound." The phrase does away with factors like weight and era. Let's talk, these old gymnasium railbirds say, about The Best.

The Cortet's latest gig (MBC 12/6) said this jazz unit has entered a similarly charmed circle. It celebrates not fads and frills but rather the constant requirements of excellence: chops and respect for the tradition and pioneer's urge toward new ground.

Leader John Cortes (four saxes at every job) long ago surpassed competence. Today his sound on alto qualifies him as a post-bop storyteller — urgent, witty, pained, delighted, feral, calm. In his hands, the quirky soprano becomes an instrument of searcher's strength. (The Wayne Shorter tune Black Nile was a good example of this.)

New bassist Dan Seamans hails from Oakland and has labored beside pros like Donald Bailey and Smiley Winters; his time-keeping and ripe lines won over experienced jazz listeners (plus curious conventioneers) at once. Pianist John Donaldson — well, his swinging creativity seems drawn from some bottomless, mantic vault.

Drummer Dan Sabanovich teaches percussion at San Jose State and himself studied with Elvin Jones, Alan Dawson, Max Roach. The man's a kick to watch as well as hear, his self-containment not unlike Philly Joe's. Power on call.

Conclusion? Follow this band closely if you want the future pleasure of saying "I knew them when." The four right now can meet any challenge found for them by manager Tup Lohse. The material's right — Shorter, Coltrane, Joe Henderson, Randy Weston, Cannonball, Tadd Dameron, Herbie Hancock — and so's the courage quotient.

(Speaking of JazzTimes. Local lensman Will Wallace has a photo in that December issue — pianist Michel Petrucianni. It's my pleasure to have two pieces therein — profiling steel drummer Andy Narell, reviewing Michel at Kuumbwa. Journal available at downtown Monterey's Abinante Music.)

NOT FAR: Hartnell Jazz Ensemble under Dr. Carl Christensen will present a free concert Friday evening (12/15) at the college Main Stage. An eight o'clock kick-off.

UC/Santa Cruz reports that Toshiko Akiyoshi Jazz Orchestra will play the Performing Arts Theater in February (Saturday night 2/3) as part of the Arts and Lectures Program. Call 1-459-2826 for ticket info.

Yoshi's in Oakland (up by the Berkeley line) slates an especially promising group next month (1/10-13). It's the quintet fronted by superb drummer Louis Hayes with Charles Tolliver (trumpet), Gary Bartz (sax), Mickey Tucker (piano), Clint Houston (bass).

IF SOMEONE'S not easily pleased, here's a special and inexpensive gift. Right now I'm hearing for maybe the fifth time a newish cassette from M/A International of West Germany — Lee Konitz in Rio. The fifth time without stopping. First one side and then the other.

The alto sax master puts forth seven drossless excursions on originals by Allan Botschinsky — it's a lyrical samba groove that gives his disciplined imagination plenty of room to paint so-pretty pictures. The backup group: top Brazilian musicians who met with Lee at Rio de Janeiro's Estudio Synth. Some electronics, some string section overdubs — and it all works.

Brett Weston claims his place as 'master photographer'

PORTUGUESE MONASTERY is among the images by Brett Weston that will be showcased at Photography West Gallery, Dolores Street at Ocean Avenue in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Weston will attend a reception at the gallery and autograph copies of his newest book.

BRETT WESTON will be the guest of honor at a birthday reception and booksigning at Photography West Gallery, Carmel, from 4 to 6 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 16. The gallery is located near the southeast corner of Dolores and Ocean in downtown Carmel.

Weston will autograph copies of his new book, Master Photographer, and will debut an exhibit honoring his work in the art of photography with an exclusive series of 20-by-24-inch images. The photographs will be on display in Photography West Gallery through Jan. 31. The show includes many of his most renowned masterworks.

Master Photographer provides a chronological overview of the artist's 65-year career in photography. The selections take the reader from Weston's first images taken in Mexico in 1925 to photographs of Hawaii, completed in 1988. Accompanying these photographs are critical essays by such writers as Van Deren Coke, Dody Thompson and Beaumont Newhall. Weston himself introduces the final chapter of his most recent images.

Weston's six-decade career as a photographer began at the age of 14 in Mexico when his father, Edward Weston, first introduced him to the camera. While these early images had some of the older Weston's influences, Brett's own "innocent discovery that repeated shapes make interesting pictures" began his own style of transforming familiar subjects to unique images. While Brett's style of photography expanded on this idea over the years, photography also grew in popularity as an art form.

Throughout his career, Brett Weston has been respected as an artist both nationally and internationally, and has had six books of his work published, including Voyage of the Eye, Five Decades, and A Personal Selection. Master Photographer is the first retrospective to provide a comprehensive look at Weston's entire 65-year photographic career.

Photography West Gallery, which represents Weston's work, is a contemporary photographic gallery that features the work of other artists, such as Ansel Adams, Bruce Barnbaum, Winston Boyer and Imogen Cunningham. The gallery is open daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Homes for the Holidays

YOUR OWN PRIVATE ENCLAVE

"Windswept," just inside the Pebble Beach-Carmel boundary, with 5.5 acres of woods and waterfalls offers the ultimate in luxurious living. Three bedrooms and baths, filtered views of Pebble Beach golf course and the ocean, and a caretaker's cottage make this a "must see" for the buyer seeking the extraordinary. Call today for an appointment. $4,000,000.

YOUR SECRET GARDEN

Roses and rhododendrons, magnificent cypress trees and planters scattered all about fill the aesthetic senses. If little things mean a lot to you, you'll love the cedar lined closets, recessed shuttered windows, copper range hood, and plenty of bookshelves and storage. A large dining room opens up to vistas of majestic hills and the Carmel Mission. 4 BR 3 BA and a spacious den are included. Call to see. $795,000.

VALLEY VIEWS

This lovely country home with guest house has one acre of sunny privacy with a well to keep lawn green and the gardens growing. The location is ideal, being only a few miles up Carmel Valley Road. Come and see how beautifully remodeled this home is...after three years, it is in like-new condition with 3 bedrooms and 3.5 baths and a fully sufficient guest house. $679,000.

CASUAL ELEGANCE DEFINED

A house that serves many purposes with grace and charm; a family home with room for all; a home for entertaining on any scale and in any fashion; a home with four bedrooms — four baths — even four fireplaces; a home with completely separate guest quarters; a home set in serene gardens on a huge lot with a horse corral and stall tucked in the back; a home with soothing waterfalls and total indoor-outdoor Carmel Valley living. THAT'S casual elegance. 15 Via Milpitas. $795,000.

A HOME AND A HALF

A lovely blue spruce awaiting festive lights is seen from both the living and family rooms of this 2 bedroom, 2 bath home nestled on 5.15 acres. Ideal access to Monterey and Salinas. A detached self-sufficient one bedroom apartment, plus a 3-car garage which accommodates a motor home, makes this property a dream-come-true for a variety of needs. $435,000.

SOUTH CARMEL HILLS

Enter through a private patio into this family home of 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. Bonus multi-purpose room downstairs. Super potential. $295,000.

Artists join in all-day draw

The Pacific Grove Art Center, 568 Lighthouse Ave. in Pacific Grove, provides the setting for all-day art draws the first Saturday of each month.

Artists in all media and skill levels are invited to work at the center for all or part of the day. They will share the cost of professional art models and work independently at easels and tables provided by the center. There is a potluck lunch for those who wish to participate.

The fee is $16 for the day or $9 for half a day, with draw hours set 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. the first Saturday of each month.

For details, call 649-4657 or 375-2208.

Camp hosts sought for Big Sur coast

State parks along the scenic Big Sur coast have several openings for volunteer camp hosts — either couples or individuals.

Camp host duties range from greeting visitors and working in a visitor center to collecting fees, maintenance and other duties involved in operating a campground. Camp hosts must supply their own camping vehicles. Campsites are provided, with hookups for water and electricity. Each camp host must agree to work 20 hours a week and stay at least two months.

Persons interested in becoming camping hosts in the state parks of the Big Sur coast may contact Chief Ranger Hayden Sohm, 667-2316, or write to Big Sur District, Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park No. 1, Big Sur, CA 93920.

Free guide to off-highway areas

A new guide to Off-Highway Vehicle Areas in California is available at State Vehicular Recreation Areas.

The guide includes a map and listing of off-highway areas managed by the California Department of Parks and Recreation, the U.S. Forest Service, the Bureau of Land Management, as well as areas managed by counties, cities or other jurisdictions.

The guide also has a section with safety and preparedness tips and legal requirements for the use of off-highway vehicles in California.

Individual copies are also available free of charge by contacting Publications Section, Department of Parks and Recreation, Box 942896, Sacramento, CA 94296-0838, call (916) 322-7000.

Volunteer gardeners sought

The City of Monterey Parks Division is in need of volunteer gardeners to work in city parks. The volunteers are led by Sandra Forman and meet 9 a.m. to noon Tuesdays at the French Consulate historic adobe, Franklin Street and Camino El Estero, Monterey. Bring your energy. Tools and materials will be provided. For details, call 646-3860.

Shop the Farmers' Market

Fresh vegetables and fruit sold by the farmers who grew them are the feature of the Farmers' Market. The market is in operation 2:30 to 6 p.m. Thursdays at Monterey Peninsula College and 8 a.m. to noon Sundays at Hartnell College in Salinas.

A variety of local produce is available at the market, including fresh vegetables, fruit, nuts, honey, mushrooms, sprouts, flowers, nursery stock, dried fruit and eggs.

For further information, call 423-7308.

Bring own water to Molera Park

Drinking or potable water is no longer available in the Andrew Molera State Park, located on the Big Sur Coast.

In the past, potable water was provided by "water buffaloes." The old military metal water tanks on wheels no longer meet state health standards for drinking water and have been removed from the park.

Campers and day users should plan on bringing their own drinking water. Drinking water is available at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park and Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park.

For further information, contact the Big Sur District Office at 667-2315.

Art council accepts grant applications

The California Arts Council was formed in 1976 to promote artistic awareness and participation in California.

Grantees may apply in one of the following disciplines: dance, interdisciplinary, literature, media, multi-disciplinary arts, music, theater, visual arts and arts service and presenting organizations.

Deadline for the 1990-91 Organizational Support Program is Feb. 1, 1990. For an application or information on this or other arts council programs contact the California Arts Council, 1901 Broadway, Suite A, Sacramento, CA 95818; (415) 445-1530.

Cooper-Molera visitor center opens

The Monterey State Historic Park, Cooper-Molera Visitor Center, located on the corner of Polk and Munras in Monterey, is now open daily except Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Visitor Center contains displays on the history of Monterey and the Cooper family members who had an impact on early California history.

WOODED SETTING

NOW SERIOUSLY back on the market...a lovingly remodeled three-bedroom home on a pretty wooded street in Carmel, offering a peek of ocean from the second floor. You'll love the living room with its raised hearth fireplace, open beamed ceiling, and loft. A door from the dining area leads to a sunny deck with hot tub and window boxes. There are two bedrooms downstairs, and the master suite with fireplace and a luxurious bath is upstairs, $525,000 fully — and attractively — furnished. Move right in!

HOMESITES IN CARMEL

JUST LISTED...two 40 by 100 lots on a very good block in a desirable and quiet north of Ocean Avenue location. You could have an ocean view if you went up a story. As you probably know, there are not many homesites left now in Carmel, especially only a couple of blocks from the ocean...so act fast! $395,000 each lot.

A HOMESITE IN P.B.

A GENTLY sloping homesite in the estate area of Pebble Beach, not far from the Lodge, Beach Club, and ocean. It's a shade under nine-tenths of an acre, and you can get a glimpse of the water through the trees. $750,000.

INCOME IN CARMEL

JUST LISTED in downtown Carmel near the new branch of the library...a property on a 40 by 100-foot lot housing four offices. There is slightly more than 1500 square feet of leasable space. The property was remodeled just a few years ago, and it shows well. Call us for details. $675,000.

INCOME IN SEASIDE

ALWAYS RENTED...five units in four houses on three lots. Each lot measures 50 by 140 feet. The zoning is R-3, and there's lots of potential in this interesting property. Call us for details. $365,000.

Reduced to $199,000 — Palo Colorado 1 acre with year-round stream at $48,000 — Carmel Highlands oceanside sensation, offered at $425,000 — Palo Colorado, 2-five acre parcels with magnificent ridgetop ocean views, $170,000 for both — Carmel Valley nearly level lot near Village, $114,000.

CLOSE-IN HOME + ACREAGE A CARMEL VALLEY CLASSIC

Two vintage homes of redwood, with beamed ceilings, and 2 smashing Carmel stone fireplaces. The main home is one great room with bath and kitchen. The semi-attached artists' studio becomes the ideal retreat, while the upstairs "crow's nest" master suite boasts views aplenty. The value of this prime property lies primarily in the level land — there's approximately 6.5 acres with mountain views and country serenity. The ideal close-in location is just 10 minutes from the mouth of Carmel Valley, with possibilities for a minor subdivision. $640,000.

CARMEL VALLEY PARADISE

An extra special kitchen and spacious family room highlight this wonderful California Ranch home! The custom, grey-washed kitchen features saltillo tile, and new range, compactor and dishwasher plus pantry. The huge family room flows from the kitchen with glass doors to lush gardens and a koi pond. The living room and formal dining room enjoy a massive, raised-hearth fireplace and wet bar. The four bedroom floor plan features a master suite with huge wardrobe and a private deck with hot tub. There's a large laundry room, lots of storage space, plus a double garage. $495,000.

NEWLY LISTED

CARMEL HIGHLANDS!!

A touch of country, with a suble sophistication in a newer, 2 bedroom, 2 bath home, with approved plans for a 440 Sq. Ft. addition!
